Science class studies weather balloon

Ruth Ann Robertson, seventh grade life science teacher at Sikeston Middle School, shows four of her students a weather balloon assembly found by James W. Abernathy on his Route One farm six miles northwest of Sikeston. Owned and launched by the U.S. Department of Commerce and the National Weather Service, the compact device contained instructions for its return and is capable of reaching heights in excess of 17 miles while transmitting meteorological data to a number of receiver sites, the nearest of which is located at Blytheville, Ark. The balloon was taken to Miss Robertson for use in her classes by Mrs. Abernathy, who is a music teacher at the middle school. The students, from left, are Kenneth Moorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moorman, 815 Poplar Drive; Ellen Spitzmiller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Spitzmiller, 214 Kramer Drive; Steven Clinton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clinton, 1025 N. Education formula revision hits snag

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Hope for a compromise bill which would revise the state's school foundation formula were dispelled Thursday when members of a joint House-Senate Education Committee failed to get together on a proposal.

But Rep. Wayne Goode, House Education Committee chairman, said he will again attempt to revise the formula through a bill to be introduced during the next legislative session.

GA revised school foundation formula bill presented by the Normandy Democrat cleared the House last session, but it died in the Senate Education Committee.

That same bill, with some revisions, essentially will be reintroduced by Goode with the hope that he and opponents to it can reach some sort of compromise on how the formula should be changed so that both urban districts will receive more funds and rural district will not be penalized.

The complex school foundation formula takes into account the number of children attending a district's schools, the tax levy used in the district, the assessed valuation and other factors in determining how much each district receives in the form of state aid.

Goode's bill would equalize the way the money is distributed to help the financially pressed St. Louis and Kansas City districts as well as what he called "poor rural districts in the Ozarks."

One bone of contention in the joint committee meeting Thursday was a plan to lend greater help to those districts which serve families receiving aid to Dependent Children payments.

Another dispute involves a proposal to use average daily enrollment rather than the present attendance factor in determining school assistance.

A supporter of that plan, Rep. Della Hadley, D-Kansas City, noted that school districts still had to maintain their facilities in spite of absenteeism, and that the pay for a teacher does not increase with the number of pupils he or she serves, nor does it decrease when there is high absenteeism.

But Carrol McCubbin, R-Eldon, disagreed.

"From the principle of educational soundness, you can't justify average daily enrollment," Rep. McCubbin said. Opponents of enrollment over attendance contend that big city districts will relax efforts to combat truancy if attendance is no longer a factor in receiving state school aid, which amounted to $407 million during the current fiscal year.

Goode finally told the committee that a bill would be proposed and that the committee members' objections to it would "be hashed out in the legislative process."

When the bill died in the Senate committee last Spring, Goode said thatno school distribution formula could be revised without an increase in state aid for schools, since that would ease the effect of the revision on school districts which might lose money.

He said thursday that the $38 million price tag put on last session's bill is cheap compared to revision formulas implemented in other states, and noted that any change in the amount of state funds appropriated for schools would not come until July 1, 1977, at which time the state might be in better financial shape to allocate more money for schools.

Blood samples show no alcohol in youth's body

CHARLESTON — Tests of blood samples taken from the body of Jack R. Johnson Jr. 19, of evansville, Ind., who fell to his death from an airplane Nov. 8, north of Charleston, showed no alcohol content, according to Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle.

McMikle, who received the results Thursday from the crime laboratory in Cape Girardeau, said he was also informed that there was not a sufficient amount of blood to determine if the youth had consumed narcotics prior to hijacking the airplane in Evansville.

McMikle ruled the death of Johnson was justifiable homicide by Richard C. Leibendguth, 26, of Evansville, the pilot of the airplane, chartered by Johnson for what was to have been a short local flight.

Johnson reportedly held a .22 caliber magnum pistol on Leibendguth from the Evansville area to Charleston, where he ordered the pilot to crash the single- engine aircraft. The gun had been taken from the home of

Tools stolen

NEW MADRID — Ans estimated $1,500 worth of small tools, including wrenches, drills and a chain saw, were stolen in a burglary of a tool shed on the carmel Lacewell farm between Gideon and Tallapoosa, the New Madrid County Sheriff's Department said today.

A sheriff's deputy said the theft was discovered Thursday, but it has not been determined when it occurred.

The shed had been entered by reaching through a crack at the front door to lift some pins that secured it from the inside.

The sheriff's department also reported that an undetermined amount of money was believed to have been taken Thursday afternoon from coin- operated machines at the Suds-N-Duds coin laundry in Lilbourn.

Police are searching for two men and two women who are believed to have had keys that fit the machines. The suspects were reportedly traveling in a white car with California licenses.

Lehr gives county good marks in audit

BENTON — State Auditor George Lehr presented the final results of an audit of Scott County offices to the County Court Thursday.

Lehr told the court that he has seen very few counties operated as well. He did offer a few suggestions on the depositing of funds to gain the best monetary results and added that funds on deposit must be secured.

The state official ended by saying that a printed report of the results and suggestions will be sent to the county within a few weeks and indicated again that his office is pleased at the findings.

The audit was done in September for the period Jan. 1, 1974 through Dec. 31, 1974, with the exception of the collector's office, which was checked for the period from March 1974 through Feb. 28, 1975, due to the difference in the fiscal year for that office.

County Cornor Gene Nunnelee presented bills to the court for services performed outside his office.

A bill for X-ray services authorized by Nunnelee at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau was approved. The other bill in the amount of $250 was from Lovinggood-Horn Laboratories of Cape Girardeau for services the coroner said his office did not authorize.

The court directed the county clerk to send a letter to the firm stating that since the county did not authorize the services, it did not intend to accept the charges.

Woman says she was raped early today

A Sikeston woman told police she was raped by a man in a pickup truck between 12:30 and 1:13 a.m. today along Interstate 57.

Police said the 44-year-old woman told them she left the Oak Room tavern at Kingsway Plaza Mall with a man who drove her to the highway in his pickup where he parked and raped her. She said he then drove her back to the intersection of Highways 60 and 61 and made her get out of the car.

She told police she did not know the man.

Patrons at the tavern said the woman's husband had left earlier in the evening and the woman had been trying to find someone to buy her a drink.

Police said the investigation has been turned over to the New Madrid County Sheriff's Department.

Hearing set Dec. 4 for Mrs. Stroud

BLOOMFIELD — Preliminary hearing for Mrs. Eulah Stroud, 50, of Route Three was set for 1 p.m. Dec. 4 during Magistrate Court proceedings Thursday.

Mrs. Stroud is charged with homicide in connection with the death of her husband on Nov. 8.

The Sheriff's Department said Jimmy Allen Stroud, 49, was shot about 5 p.m. Nov. 8 with a 16-guage shotgun.

Mrs. Stroud reported the shooting to authorities, saying Stroud shot himself. He was in bed at the time of the shooting.

New Madrid to build pavilion

NEW MADRID — Construction of a pavilion on the old swimming pool site in the city park at the corner of Crisler and Davis streets was chosen as the major project for the coming year by the Community Betterment Committee during a planning meeting called Wednesday by Mrs. Don Lloyd, newly appointed CB chairman.

Several projects were proposed and discussed and it was agreed to conduct a second citywide attitude survey and a youth survey and to continue city beautification efforts.

During a discussion concerning the group's dismay over the desolate appearance of Main Street, which has many empty business buildings that are steadily deteriorating, it was suggested by Sam L. Hunter Jr. that the primary concern should be creating jobs in New Madrid and that would lead to a recovery of an improved business district.

Hunter disclosed that tentative plans were under consideration by Dixie Enterprises Inc. to construct a shell industrial building in the western section of town with the hopes of enticing an industry to locate in New Madrid.

Hunter said contacts are being made that could possibly lead to the employment of between 300 and 400 persons.

The type of pavilion to be constructed is to be determined after financing methods are resolved. The pavilion as planned in the present park improvement program that is partially financed by federal funds is estimated to cost $20,000.

A grant plus a loan will be sought from a special community development fund for 66 per cent of the cost by the CB committee, with the remaining 34 per cent to be paid by the Department of Housing an Urban Development.

Volunteer members named to a fund-raising committee were Dot Scobey, Thelma King, Sarah Lee Hunter and Sam Hunter.

An updated community attitude survey was proposed after it was pointed out that many of the projects undertaken from the first survey in 1972 have been accomplished or are nearing completion.

A committee of Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Lillian Hedgepeth and Mrs. Virginia ann Carlson was named to contact clubs, organizations, schools and individuals for assistance in compiling and conducting surveys.

Harriette Hunter and Ann Evans Copeland have agreed to promote a Youth for Community betterment Group and a youth survey will be made to obtain their ideas, aimed primarily for a summer recreation program as well as assistance on community betterment projects.

John Bollinger of Chaffee, Southeast Missouri area community betterment specialist, participated in the meeting and gave helpful suggestions and guidelines.

Pfefferkorn heads C of C

CHAFFEE — Bill Pfefferkorn was elected president of the Chaffee Chamber of Commerce for 1976 in an election conducted Thursday night.

Other new chamber officers for 1976 include Joe Perry Rice III, first vice president; Ron Whitaker, second vice president, Tom Plummer, secretary; and Bill Whistler, treasurer.

Installation of the new officers will take place at a dinner to be held Jan. 22, 1976 at the Elks Club.

A special guest speaker for the occasion will be former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Bill McMeley and Louis Naeve, operators of Namac apparel Inc., reported on the progress their company has made in starting operations in Chaffee.

McMeley said that machinery should be installed by the end of the month and that production should begin Dec. 15. He said the firm expects to employ 75 persons within a year and will manufacture men's and young men's blue jeans and jackets.

Naeve gave a short history of the firm's background and said the many problems that arise when opening a business had been made easier by the help the Chamber of Commerce and the city has given them.

Louise Kielhofner reported the Moonlite Madness Sale conducted by the merchants Nov. 14 was a great success and that merchants will now stay open until 8 p.m. on Fridays.

DeWayne Bryant, a representative of the Chaffee Jaycees, reported on plans for the Christmas parade, which is a joint project with the chamber.

He said the Christmas festivities will be held Dec. 6, starting with a contest to choose Little Mister and Miss Chaffee winners at 10:30 a.m., followed by the parade at 2 p.m. with Little Mister and Miss Chaffee reigning over the parade. Participating in the parade will be six school bands from around the area, the Cape Clowns (a group of shriners) and various floats.

Reporting on the Christmas decorations, Bryant said installation of lights will begin Dec. 1 and be completed before the parade.

Reporting on another joint project of the two groups — the restoration of the cross on top of the hill overlooking the city — Bryant said the cross has been painted and that new lights would be placed before Thanksgiving. He added that he would like to thank the Boy Scouts of Troop 52 who helped clean up the area at the cross.

Jim Chronister, assistant to the mayor, discussed the public meeting to be held Dec. 1, at 7 p.m. in the community center.

He explained the city is making preapplication for $400,000 in discretionary funds through the Department of Housing and Urban Development, including, $340,000 for sewer program, $50,000 for rehabilitation of homes and $10,000 for park improvements.

Bids to be opened Dec. 10 on water treatment plant

The Board of Municipal Utilities will open bids Dec. 10 for the new water treatment plant, according to Dick Inman, board director.

The board has authorized bonding attorneys to begin procedures leading to the issuing of $500,000 in bonds to pay for the plant.

Voters approved the issuing of $600,000 in bonds in November 1974, but Inman said the board is hoping to bring the plant on line for $500,000. The extra $100,000 in bonding power will be used only if the plant is more costly than expected.

Inman said the board hopes to see the plant in operation by mid-1976.

The water treatment plant, to be built near the steam plant on Compress Road will treat 3.1 million gallons of water daily, doubling the city's capacity.

The new plant will have 50 sand filters for easier maintenance and will be fully automatic. The filters will be cleaned every 30 to 40 hours instead of every 24 hours as in older plants.

Since the bond issue was approved in 1974, the plans have been held up while waiting for state and federal agencies to give their approval.

City manager Charles Church said he did not think the city board would have any trouble selling the bonds despite the prospect of a New York City default. The city utility system is in sound financial shape, he said.

Proposed water plant

Bids will be opened at the Board of Municipal Utilities office Dec. 10 for the construction of a new water treatment plant on Compress Road. The plant, expected to be ready in mid-1976, will cost an estimated $500,000. Construction plans had been held up while the city awaited approval from federal and state agencies.

DETENTE IMPERILS NATO

The Soviet Union and its allies "have shown how to couple a policy of detente with a strong military policy. We (in NATO) have not shown the same ability. Detente, in fact, has resulted in complacency, erosion, and a cutback of military forces in many of our countries."

That view was offered recently by none other than Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, who served as Supreme Allied Commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces for five and one-half years, ending last December. The venerable, now retired Army officer, in a seminar sponsored by the Institute for American Strategy, outlined why detente imperils the Western Alliance.

"There is uneasiness in NATO that through direct communication (between the United States and the Soviet Union), they are being left out," said Goodpaster. Even more dangerous, he indicated, has been the tendency in member countries to relax their guard in the belief that detente has made the world safer for diversity.

The General, addressing a top-level group of Washington journalists, emphasized that detente means something quite differrent in Moscow than in Washington. The definition accepted by the U.S., he said, is a "reduction of the causes of tension." Russia, however, has other ideas, said Goodpaster, and we are "on unsafe ground if we expect it (a real detente) to come from a changed ideology in the Soviet Union."

Goodpaster also charged that there has been a "conspiracy of silence" in the West on the overwhelming numerical superiority of Warsaw Pact forces vis-a-vis NATO forces. The former, he explained, has twice as many aircraft, three times as many tanks, and "parity plus" in strategic nuclear weapons.

The General took his stand precisely where every responsible U.S. leader has stood: the sole basis for respect from the Soviet Union is strength. It is a lesson we can only hope the West will learn before it is too late.

A GOOD IDEA, BUT ...

The history of warfare, up until the nuclear era anyway, offers an abundance of examples of how every innovation in offensive weaponry has eventually been countered by a development in defensive weaponry, and vice versa.

The same things is true of the war against crime. A case in point is a nifty little item called the "Taser Public Defender" which its maker, Taser System of Los Angeles, calls a nonlethal crime prevention device for stopping attackers. Looking something like a flashlight, the device launches two small darts attached to batteries by 18-foot wires. The darts can penetrate 1.5 inches of clothing and deliver a 50,000-volt jolt that is exceedingly painful and incapacitating but not deadly. Or so the company says in its literature.

As might have been predicted, however, in the first "wartime" use of the Taser Public Defender that has come to our attention, a young woman and her male companion walked into a gas station in Miami where the woman smilingly zapped the attendant with the electronic dart gun and then helped her accomplice clean out the cash register. The attendant, who true to the company's promise was not killed, described it as "the worst pain I ever felt."

To make the story complete, the Taser Public Defender was stolen from an office in Miami. In fact, it was one of eight stolen — and not by anybody interested in defending the public, you may be sure.

STATISTICS AND WOMEN

From The Retail Clerks Advocate

When a woman goes to work today, she is not doing anything unusual—there are now more than 33,000,000 women working—but she will suffer all forms of discrimination.

She will get less pay than men for the same type of work; she will get less promotional opportunities; she will be laid off more frequently; and she will find it much more difficult to break into higher paying occupations. Working women live with these realities despite the fact that nearly two-thirds of them are providing essential incomes for their families, and without that income, these families would sink below the poverty level as defined by the United States Department of Labor.

Some of the statistics are startling. For example, the President's Council of Economic Advisors estimates there is an earning differential of 20 per cent between men and women that can be definitely attributable to sex discrimination. This is a major contributing cause for the wide disparity in wages paid to men and women: the median wage for year-round, full-time workers is $10,608 for men and $6448 for women. Indeed pay differentials based on sex are even greater than those based on race or national origin. And they are getting worse. In the last 20 years, women's earnings have declined from 63.9 to 57.9 per cent of men's earnings.

Unemployment also has hit women harder than men. At the end of last year, the unemployment rate for men was 6.2 per cent, while it was 8.6 per cent for women.

Also, sex discrimination probably accounts for the unusual concentration of women in certain occupations and job situations. More than one third of working women are employed in just seven occupations—secretarial, sales, general household, teaching, bookkeeping, food service and nursing. And more than one half are employed in jobs where 70 per cent or more of the workforce is composed of women. Such concentration makes it easy for employers to lower pay scales since there is an overabundance of available workers. Naturally, this fosters higher unemployment, too.

IT'S THE REAL THING

By RAY CROW

I guess I have a hang-up, but
I simply never use
The brand of peanut butter
That the choosy mothers choose.
I don't buy toilet paper just
To see if I can squeeze it,
And though my dog deserves the best
In food, he never sees it.
I often get a headache when
Commercials come on louder,
But never, with my hand-up, does
My headache take a powder.
The firm that's lending millions won't
Be lending me a dollar,
Nor am I buying soap that stops
My ring around the collar.
In short, the more I'm sloganized,
The more I tend to shun
Such practices, in my shopping, as
The choosey mother one!

THE GREAT FISCAL ILLUSION

According to Forbes magazine, the mass of voters have finally realized who pays for government spending. They do, all of them. But can a real curb on spending be far behind? Maybe. But maybe not.

For instance, a well-paid professional who received a substantial raise in the past year took a close look at his paycheck recently. He was shocked to discover that it netted exactly what it did a year ago, before he received the 10 per cent raise. Had the accounting office made a mistake? No. Higher Social Security had taken a big chunk. So had higher state and city taxes. And, the increase fell in a higher federal tax bracket. Most of the raise had gone for taxes. Factor in 10 per cent inflation, and he was worse off than before.

Curiously, the governments that took such a big bite from him are worse off, too. The Federal Government can print money, but were it not for that, it would be no better off than New York City--at $75 billion or more this year, the federal deficit is of wartime proportions in a time of peace.

Bulging deficits are becoming a way of life. Government spending continues to grow, but the various governments all over America have reached--or passed--the practical limits of their power to tax.

President Ford has staked out his position for next year's campaign with a $28 billion tax cut, enough to put $200 or $300 back in each middle-class pocket next year, coupled with equivalent cuts in federal spending. The President calls it a "new direction;" the Democrats call it unrealistic grandstanding.

Yet liberal governors like Hugh Carey of New York, Ella Grasso of Connecticut and Jerry Brown of California are competing with conservatives in their enthusiasm for government economy and a lid on taxes. Even influential radicals such as Pete Hamill and Nicholas von Hoffman, to name a few, have called for an end to welfare and a return to worker capitalism. Black voters are hard to gauge, but perhaps the most prominent spokesman for the individual against the claims of the state has been Muhammed Ali. The old lines of who's for and who's against no longer help. What is Left? What is Right?

Twenty-five years ago government federal, state and local--took 18 per cent of the gross national product. Since then governments' share has about doubled. Is the public getting twice as much as it got in 1950? The voters' answer is clearly an unequivocally: No. In some areas, education, for example, there are those who think we are getting less. This binge of public spending has had unforeseen consequences; in choosing to pursue one goal, we seem to have neglected others.

The politicians have already gotten half the message--the half about taxes. Now the question seems to be: Will they get the message that taxing and spending are intimately related?

The tax rebellion of the mid-Seventies may look like the old, simple pocketbook issue. In fact, it is the beginning of a fight to keep the U.S. from becoming another Britain or another Argentina.

FRIENDS OF BOND SOLICITED UTILITIES

Jefferson City—Persons representing Gov. Christopher Bond solicited utilities regulated by the state to help finance a meeting of Republican governors in St. Louis last year.

The utilities, which depend entirely on decisions of the Missouri Public Service Commission for rate setting, were solicited by friends of Bond for cash contributions to help support the Republican gathering last December.

Members of the public service commssission are appointed by the governor to oversee utilities and their rates. Four of the five members of the present commission were named by Bond and the other by former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The governor said he personally was involved in soliciting funds or services from many Missouri businesses for the conference, but he said he does not specifically recall contacting any utilities or their executives.

Solicitations not conducted directly by the governor were handled by a group led by Alfred J. Fleischer of St. Louis, state Republican party finance chairman.

Bond defended the practice of soliciting firms regulated by the state for contributions and said he does not believe utilities that were solicited thought pressure was being brought on them to support the conference.

"They knew that whether they gave or not would have no impact on any decision of the public service commission," the governor said. "There is no communication from this office to the commission about any regulatory matter pending before the commission."

Records of the conference supplied by the Bond administration show that Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and Laclede Gas Company of St. Louis each contributed $1,000 toward financing the Republican conference.

Fleischer said money and services were sought from many major businesses not only in St. Louis but in other parts of the state.

Records show that about 60 Missouri companies, many of which do business with the state, contributed to the Republican event.

The money collected was used to pay for cocktail receptions, meals and small gifts representative of Missouri for governors and their staffs attending the meeting.

Fleischer said the money was solitited with the understanding that any funds left over would go to charity rather than to the Missouri Republican Party. Some money was left and was donated to the St. Louis United Way campaign last month, he said.

This year the winter meeting of the Republican governors association will begin Thursday in Wichita.

ASSOCIATION MAILS CHRISTMAS SEALS

The 69th Annual Christmas Seal Campaign officially opened November 11 throughout the United States. Eastern Missouri residents should have already received the colorful 1975 Christmas Seals from their Lung Association. Over one half million campaign letters have been mailed during the past weeks to co-ordinate the official campaign inauguration.

"Christmas Seal funds are needed for research and education in our fight against lung diseases," said C.F. Cline, representative from Scott County on the ALA of Eastern Missouri Advisory Council. "In addition to fellowships and research grants which actually work on solving the perplexing problems of lung diseases. Christmas Seal contributions also provide free services to the community, such as smoking withdrawal clinics," Mr. Cline continued.

Mr. Cline went on to say that the problem and incidence of lung disease is higher than ever before. "Deaths from emphysema alone have risen more than 145 per cent in the last decade," Cline stated. "In addition, more persons are smoking now than ever before. Until this problem, along with the problems for the lung disease patient raised by increased air pollution are solved, Lung Associations cannot reach the goal of controlling and preventing lung diseases," he said.

Christmas Seal funds are needed to continue programs for lung disease patients in Scott County. Ninety per cent of all Christmas Seal donations are used for these supportive programs in Eastern Missouri.

Persons wanting more information on any of the programs of the Lung Association, or wishing additional Christmas Seals, should contact the American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri, 411 North Seventh Street, St. Louis, Missouri 63101, telephone: 241- 1554.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Tales of Hoffa:

—Carlo Gambino did not send the Mafia courier

WASHINGTON — For a while, the romanticists had it that Don Calo Gambino, godfather of godfathers, had dispatched a courier to the Detroit and Chicago combines to get them off their duffs and go find Jimmy Hoffa alive or dead to prove that the syndicate doesn't go in for this sort of thing. The Mafia was getting a bad name what with word getting around that this was an organization hit of such a nice fellow.

Well, Don Carlo, relaxing quietly in his Massapequa, Long Island (N.Y.) shangri-la, did no such thing. To the boss of bosses, Hoffa and some of the latter's friends were upstarts making too many waves, spilling too many leaks and turning author too frequently. This just isn't Don Calo's thing. Detective stories yes. Autobiographies no.

And it wasn't the Mafia which was gettin a bad name -- it was, and is, the federal government. It isn't the syndicate which is getting the heat. It's the government.

And the hottest seat in town has been that of Michigan's Republican Senator with a future, 52-year-old Robert Griffin, co-author of the powerful 1959 Landrum-Griffin labor-management reporting and disclosure law. His constituency wants action on the Hoffa disappearance, and on the huge teamster $2.5 billion pension, health and welfare funds centralized in Chicago.

On Sept. 27 Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, too, lunched with Fitz, who said he'd cooperate with any probe but wouldn't stand for any smear.

Finally Griffin decided that John Dunlop's Labor Department was too timid; that the Justice Department was too busy and time had come to call for a Senate select committee in the image of Arkansas elder statesman Sen. John McClellan's famed probe -- the one which sired two presidential candidates, John Kennedy and Barry Goldwater (both members of the old group).

Well, Dunlop isn't timid. He has a sort of science fiction talent for being opaque and transparent simultaneously. His Labor Department probers quietly are deep into the investigation of the vast Teamsters Central States, Southeast and Southwest Pension fund and interlocked health and welfare monies. These have paid out $2.5 billion in the past 14 years.

But it will take an additional 300 to 400 auditors and investigators. Dunlop doesn't have the money to hire them. Why? He's asked the White House to push it. No report of a further push. Why? If so it's all buried in Congress. Why?

Further, Dunlop has a passion for "due process" and is allergic to the investigative reporter. He's a devotee of the quiet probe. But timid he's not.

Neither is the Justice Department. FBI agents are neck deep in the Hoffa mystery. And in the pension-welfare-health investigation. But there must be some central strategy. How do you hit the fund? How does one determine the role of the 16 trustees who administer the funds?

These are the questions now being studied by the coordinated "task force" meeting in Detroit, Chicago and here in the capital.

Should it be attempted on a criminal or civil basis? Either way the probe and grand juries treatment and possible trials would take four or five years. Would it be easier to prove criminal conspiracy or to go in for a search of possible civil violations of the trustees' fiduciary relationship?

And after all the howling, where is the manpower? Why, for example, was a crack team of Labor Department probers taken off investigations in the Florida office of the U.S. Labor Department and dispersed into other sections -- as some of them have charged?

How can the Justice Department-IRS-Labor Department task force prove that risky loans, bad loans, shady loans and even loans as huge as a combination of $200 million to one operator (now dead) were criminal violations?

Sure, lots of tough names have gotten their hands on loans. That's easy to trace – the whole thing: the m bankruptcy, the quick deals, the incestuous Midwest crowd's skimmings which have been reported over the years.

Point is – why haven't all these mysteries been cracked before? Why have there been just two or three convictions, one of which was Hoffa himself, involving crooked deals? These stories have been in the public prints for years – dollar by dollar, scheme by scheme, alleged fraud by alleged fraud.

The questions to be answered are: Why hasn't there been enough investigataive manpower? Why hasn't John Dunlop's request for more money been rushed through? Why have the nation's 17 anti-organized crime Justice Department strike forces been held in leash? Why have their appropriations been squeezed?

So Sen. Griffin now wants some answers: Who was sufficiently powerful in the Midwestern combines to give a body movement assent to the hit on Hoffa? What about all the violence in and around Hoffa's home local 299, Detroit? Why hasn't the bureaucracy all the way up, up, up the line been more active?

Once and for all, the nation should know who actually controlled that money before the bookkeeping began adding up fiduciarily. Could be we might learn something politically.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Dehumanizing Prison Conditions

with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — We smuggled a reporter last week into one of the nation's most forbidding, impenetrable prisons -- the 130-year-old, maximum security Clinton Correctional Facility just below the Canadian border in rural New York.

Inmates had complained to us that they had been beaten, hosed down, harassed and subjected to degrading regulations such as repetitive rectal searches.

Clinton's 71-year-old superintendent, James Edwin LaVallee, known on the inside as the "godfather," told us the charges are "the standard kind of sympathy-arousing complaints."

He denied anything improper was happening inside his prison. "Actually," he said, "it's a pretty nice place, pretty well run."

To find out for ourselves, we sent a reporter, Terry Repak, into Clinton. We arranged with New York Assemblywoman Marie Runyon to appoint her as a staff advisor and to take her on an inspection tour. It's the only way a reporter can get an inside view of New York's most feared and formidable prison.

Repak, who has toured other state prisons for the American Bar Association's Correctional Reform Committee, found Clinton the most depressing and degrading place she had ever visited.

Within the massive gray walls, more than 2,000 sullen inmates are crowded in dank, musty cellblocks. They sleep with roaches in their bedsprings, bed bugs in their mattresses and an open toilet two feet from their heads.

The heavy iron doors slam so fast behind them that prisoners complained of getting their arms caught. For exercise, they congregate in a dreary asphalt courtyard the size of a grade school playground.

Prisoners in the disciplinary cellblock, the infamous Unit 14, nicknamed "the box," complained of physical and psychological brutality. They told of beatings, harassments and hosings. Last month a convicted murderer, Wilfredo Sostre, hanged himself from the overhead pipes after 18 months in "the box."

Runyon and Repak insisted upon talking to inmates from the notorious cellblock. Typical was the report of Roosevelt Williamson, a 24-year-old black youth, who had spent six months in Unit 14.

Because he had agreed to the interview, he said, the guards hassled him and compelled him to bend over for a prolonged rectal search. "Bend over further, we can't see good enough," they taunted him.

He eventually appeared for the interview, his hands shackled to a belt at his waist by steel cuffs. His devotions as a Sunni Muslim, he said, had landed him in Unit 14. He would spread a sheet on the floor five times a day for prayers. His sheet and other religious materials were seized as "contraband," and he was dumped into "the box" for protesting.

Because he is forbidden by his religion to use a razor, the young Muslim had a shadow of a beard, which was taken as a sign of dissent. Last month his family was turned away after a long journey from New York City, he charged, because he allegedly hadn't shaved. Three days later, he was dragged from his cell and shot with the knockout drug thorazin. When he came to, he had been clean-shaven.

Showering was a humiliating ordeal for the slight, 120-pound Williamson. "You walk out naked, backwards, in the middle of 10 or 12 big white guards who laugh at you," he alleged. Rather than put up with the derision, he bathed and washed his clothes in the toilet beside his bed.

After 60 days in "the box," he appeared before the superintendent's advisory committee to get his disciplinary sentence reviewed. "The whole way back from the meeting," he said, "the guards were stepping on the backs of my sneakers. I was scared, you know, and when I got back in my cell ... then they jumped me."

Elsewhere in the prison our reporter found no evidence of physical abuse. But those who became active in educational or civil rights programs encountered other forms of intimidation.

"You may not get outrightly knocked in the head," said one, "but you'll lose privileges or get tripped on the rules."

Another put it this way: "We're mentally smothered here. A man is not permitted to think for himself but leaves here so brainwashed he can't function unless he hears a billy club rap on the bars."

Inmate Tivis Hawkins, for example, was reprimanded by a guard for taking his book into the mess hall. When he proved there was no rule against this, the angry guard trumped up another charge and had Hawkins thrown into a keep-lock cell for 14 days.

Inmates complained it takes extraordinary symptoms before they are given medical attention. Several who were interviewed pointed out the scales on the sides of their mouths from Vitamin C deficiency. Yet the doctors merely coated the sores with camphor.

Conditions inside Clinton, we concluded, violate the Constitutional rights of the inmates. The Constitution guarantees that they won't be subjected to "cruel and unusual punishments."

Footnote: Most of the inmates' charges were confirmed by prison officials who were questioned privately by our reporter. The deputy superintendent, Patrick McGann, categorically denied most of the charges and then referred us to the state penal system for comment. A spokesman said Commissioner Benjamin Ward "is concerned" about the charges and will investigate them. "We always welcome any information about any allegations," said the spokesman.

Unemployment also has hit women harder than men. At the end of last year, the unemployment rate for men was 6.2 per cent, while it was 8.6 per cent for women.

Also, sex discrimination probably accounts for the unusual concentration of women in certain occupations and job situations. More than one third of working women are employed in just seven occupations—secretarial, sales, general household, teaching, bookkeeping, food service and nursing. And more than one half are employed in jobs where 70 per cent or more of the workforce is composed of women. Such concentration makes it easy for employers to lower pay scales since there is an overabundance of available workers. Naturally, this fosters higher unemployment, too.

IT'S THE REAL THING
By RAY CROW

I guess I have a hang-up, but
I simply never use
The brand of peanut butter
That the choosy mothers choose.
I don't buy toilet paper just
To see if I can squeeze it,
And though my dog deserves the best
In food, he never sees it.
I often get a headache when
Commercials come on louder,
But never, with my hand-up, does
My headache take a powder.
The firm that's lending millions won't
Be lending me a dollar,
Nor am I buying soap that stops
My ring around the collar.
In short, the more I'm sloganized,
The more I tend to shun
Such practices, in my shopping, as
The choosey mother one!

THE GREAT FISCAL ILLUSION

According to Forbes magazine, the mass of voters have finally realized who pays for government spending. They do, all of them. But can a real curb on spending be far behind? Maybe. But maybe not.

For instance, a well-paid professional who received a substantial raise in the past year took a close look at his paycheck recently. He was shocked to discover that it netted exactly what it did a year ago, before he received the 10 per cent raise. Had the accounting office made a mistake? No. Higher Social Security had taken a big chunk. So had higher state and city taxes. And, the increase fell in a higher federal tax bracket. Most of the raise had gone for taxes. Factor in 10 per cent inflation, and he was worse off than before.

Curiously, the governments that took such a big bite from him are worse off, too. The Federal Government can print money, but were it not for that, it would be no better off than New York City--at $75 billion or more this year, the federal deficit is of wartime proportions in a time of peace.

Bulging deficits are becoming a way of life. Government spending continues to grow, but the various governments all over America have reached--or passed--the practical limits of their power to tax.

President Ford has staked out his position for next year's campaign with a $28 billion tax cut, enough to put $200 or $300 back in each middle-class pocket next year, coupled with equivalent cuts in federal spending. The President calls it a "new direction;" the Democrats call it unrealistic grandstanding.

Yet liberal governors like Hugh Carey of New York, Ella Grasso of Connecticut and Jerry Brown of California are competing with conservatives in their enthusiasm for government economy and a lid on taxes. Even influential radicals such as Pete Hamill and Nicholas von Hoffman, to name a few, have called for an end to welfare and a return to worker capitalism. Black voters are hard to gauge, but perhaps the most prominent spokesman for the individual against the claims of the state has been Muhammed Ali. The old lines of who's for and who's against no longer help. What is Left? What is Right?

Twenty-five years ago government federal, state and local--took 18 per cent of the gross national product. Since then governments' share has about doubled. Is the public getting twice as much as it got in 1950? The voters' answer is clearly an unequivocally: No. In some areas, education, for example, there are those who think we are getting less. This binge of public spending has had unforeseen consequences; in choosing to pursue one goal, we seem to have neglected others.

The politicians have already gotten half the message--the half about taxes. Now the question seems to be: Will they get the message that taxing and spending are intimately related?

The tax rebellion of the mid-Seventies may look like the old, simple pocketbook issue. In fact, it is the beginning of a fight to keep the U.S. from becoming another Britain or another Argentina.

FRIENDS OF BOND SOLICITED UTILITIES

Jefferson City—Persons representing Gov. Christopher Bond solicited utilities regulated by the state to help finance a meeting of Republican governors in St. Louis last year.

The utilities, which depend entirely on decisions of the Missouri Public Service Commission for rate setting, were solicited by friends of Bond for cash contributions to help support the Republican gathering last December.

Members of the public service commsission are appointed by the governor to oversee utilities and their rates. Four of the five members of the present commission were named by Bond and the other by former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The governor said he personally was involved in soliciting funds or services from many Missouri businesses for the conference, but he said he does not specifically recall contacting any utilities or their executives.

Solicitations not conducted directly by the governor were handled by a group led by Alfred J. Fleischer of St. Louis, state Republican party finance chairman.

Bond defended the practice of soliciting firms regulated by the state for contributions and said he does not believe utilities that were solicited thought pressure was being brought on them to support the conference.

"They knew that whether they gave or not would have no impact on any decision of the public service commission," the governor said. "There is no communication from this office to the commission about any regulatory matter pending before the commission."

Records of the conference supplied by the Bond administration show that Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and Laclede Gas Company of St. Louis each contributed $1,000 toward financing the Republican conference.

Fleischer said money and services were sought from many major businesses not only in St. Louis but in other parts of the state.

Records show that about 60 Missouri companies, many of which do business with the state, contributed to the Republican event.

The money collected was used to pay for cocktail receptions, meals and small gifts representative of Missouri for governors and their staffs attending the meeting.

Fleischer said the money was solitited with the understanding that any funds left over would go to charity rather than to the Missouri Republican Party. Some money was left and was donated to the St. Louis United Way campaign last month, he said.

This year the winter meeting of the Republican governors association will begin Thursday in Wichita.

ASSOCIATION MAILS CHRISTMAS SEALS

The 69th Annual Christmas Seal Campaign officially opened November 11 throughout the United States. Eastern Missouri residents should have already received the colorful 1975 Christmas Seals from their Lung Association. Over one half million campaign letters have been mailed during the past weeks to co-ordinate the official campaign inauguration.

"Christmas Seal funds are needed for research and education in our fight against lung diseases," said C.F. Cline, representative from Scott County on the ALA of Eastern Missouri Advisory Council. "In addition to fellowships and research grants which actually work on solving the perplexing problems of lung diseases. Christmas Seal contributions also provide free services to the community, such as smoking withdrawal clinics," Mr. Cline continued.

Mr. Cline went on to say that the problem and incidence of lung disease is higher than ever before. "Deaths from emphysema alone have risen more than 145 per cent in the last decade," Cline stated. "In addition, more persons are smoking now than ever before. Until this problem, along with the problems for the lung disease patient raised by increased air pollution are solved, Lung Associations cannot reach the goal of controlling and preventing lung diseases," he said.

Christmas Seal funds are needed to continue programs for lung disease patients in Scott County. Ninety per cent of all Christmas Seal donations are used for these supportive programs in Eastern Missouri.

Persons wanting more information on any of the programs of the Lung Association, or wishing additional Christmas Seals, should contact the American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri, 411 North Seventh Street, St. Louis, Missouri 63101, telephone: 241- 1554.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Tales of Hoffa:
—Carlo Gambino did not send the Mafia courier

WASHINGTON — For a while, the romanticists had it that Don Calo Gambino, godfather of godfathers, had dispatched a courier to the Detroit and Chicago combines to get them off their duffs and go find Jimmy Hoffa alive or dead to prove that the syndicate doesn't go in for this sort of thing. The Mafia was getting a bad name what with word getting around that this was an organization hit of such a nice fellow.

Well, Don Carlo, relaxing quietly in his Massapequa, Long Island (N.Y.) shangri-la, did no such thing. To the boss of bosses, Hoffa and some of the latter's friends were upstarts making too many waves, spilling too many leaks and turning author too frequently. This just isn't Don Calo's thing. Detective stories yes. Autobiographies no.

And it wasn't the Mafia which was gettin a bad name -- it was, and is, the federal government. It isn't the syndicate which is getting the heat. It's the government.

And the hottest seat in town has been that of Michigan's Republican Senator with a future, 52-year-old Robert Griffin, co-author of the powerful 1959 Landrum-Griffin labor-management reporting and disclosure law. His constituency wants action on the Hoffa disappearance, and on the huge teamster $2.5 billion pension, health and welfare funds centralized in Chicago.

Griffin lunched with Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons, Teamsters general president. Nothing new. Fitz also conferred privately with New York Sen. Jack Javits, co-author of the pension reform act, known as "ERISA." Still nothing new.

On Sept. 27 Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, too, lunched with Fitz, who said he'd cooperate with any probe but wouldn't stand for any smear.

Finally Griffin decided that John Dunlop's Labor Department was too timid; that the Justice Department was too busy and time had come to call for a Senate select committee in the image of Arkansas elder statesman Sen. John McClellan's famed probe -- the one which sired two presidential candidates, John Kennedy and Barry Goldwater (both members of the old group).

Well, Dunlop isn't timid. He has a sort of science fiction talent for being opaque and transparent simultaneously. His Labor Department probers quietly are deep into the investigation of the vast Teamsters Central States, Southeast and Southwest Pension fund and interlocked health and welfare monies. These have paid out $2.5 billion in the past 14 years.

But it will take an additional 300 to 400 auditors and investigators. Dunlop doesn't have the money to hire them. Why? He's asked the White House to push it. No report of a further push. Why? If so it's all buried in Congress. Why?

Further, Dunlop has a passion for "due process" and is allergic to the investigative reporter. He's a devotee of the quiet probe. But timid he's not.

Neither is the Justice Department. FBI agents are neck deep in the Hoffa mystery. And in the pension-welfare-health investigation. But there must be some central strategy. How do you hit the fund? How does one determine the role of the 16 trustees who administer the funds?

These are the questions now being studied by the coordinated "task force" meeting in Detroit, Chicago and here in the capital.

Should it be attempted on a criminal or civil basis? Either way the probe and grand juries treatment and possible trials would take four or five years. Would it be easier to prove criminal conspiracy or to go in for a search of possible civil violations of the trustees' fiduciary relationship?

And after all the howling, where is the manpower? Why, for example, was a crack team of Labor Department probers taken off investigations in the Florida office of the U.S. Labor Department and dispersed into other sections -- as some of them have charged?

How can the Justice Department-IRS-Labor Department task force prove that risky loans, bad loans, shady loans and even loans as huge as a combination of $200 million to one operator (now dead) were criminal violations?

Sure, lots of tough names have gotten their hands on loans. That's easy to trace – the whole thing: the m bankruptcy, the quick deals, the incestuous Midwest crowd's skimmings which have been reported over the years.

Point is – why haven't all these mysteries been cracked before? Why have there been just two or three convictions, one of which was Hoffa himself, involving crooked deals? These stories have been in the public prints for years – dollar by dollar, scheme by scheme, alleged fraud by alleged fraud.

The questions to be answered are: Why hasn't there been enough investigataive manpower? Why hasn't John Dunlop's request for more money been rushed through? Why have the nation's 17 anti-organized crime Justice Department strike forces been held in leash? Why have their appropriations been squeezed?

So Sen. Griffin now wants some answers: Who was sufficiently powerful in the Midwestern combines to give a body movement assent to the hit on Hoffa? What about all the violence in and around Hoffa's home local 299, Detroit? Why hasn't the bureaucracy all the way up, up, up the line been more active?

Once and for all, the nation should know who actually controlled that money before the bookkeeping began adding up fiduciarily. Could be we might learn something politically.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Dehumanizing Prison Conditions

with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — We smuggled a reporter last week into one of the nation's most forbidding, impenetrable prisons – the 130-year-old, maximum security Clinton Correctional Facility just below the Canadian border in rural New York.

Inmates had complained to us that they had been beaten, hosed down, harassed and subjected to degrading regulations such as repetitive rectal searches.

Clinton's 71-year-old superintendent, James Edwin LaVallee, known on the inside as the "godfather," told us the charges are "the standard kind of sympathy-arousing complaints."

He denied anything improper was happening inside his prison. "Actually," he said, "it's a pretty nice place, pretty well run."

To find out for ourselves, we sent a reporter, Terry Repak, into Clinton. We arranged with New York Assemblywoman Marie Runyon to appoint her as a staff advisor and to take her on an inspection tour. It's the only way a reporter can get an inside view of New York's most feared and formidable prison.

Repak, who has toured other state prisons for the American Bar Association's Correctional Reform Committee, found Clinton the most depressing and degrading place she had ever visited.

Within the massive gray walls, more than 2,000 sullen inmates are crowded in dank, musty cellblocks. They sleep with roaches in their bedsprings, bed bugs in their mattresses and an open toilet two feet from their heads.

The heavy iron doors slam so fast behind them that prisoners complained of getting their arms caught. For exercise, they congregate in a dreary asphalt courtyard the size of a grade school playground.

Prisoners in the disciplinary cellblock, the infamous Unit 14, nicknamed "the box," complained of physical and psychological brutality. They told of beatings, harassments and hosings. Last month a convicted murderer, Wilfredo Sostre, hanged himself from the overhead pipes after 18 months in "the box."

Runyon and Repak insisted upon talking to inmates from the notorious cellblock. Typical was the report of Roosevelt Williamson, a 24-year-old black youth, who had spent six months in Unit 14.

Because he had agreed to the interview, he said, the guards hassled him and compelled him to bend over for a prolonged rectal search. "Bend over further, we can't see good enough," they taunted him.

He eventually appeared for the interview, his hands shackled to a belt at his waist by steel cuffs. His devotions as a Sunni Muslim, he said, had landed him in Unit 14. He would spread a sheet on the floor five times a day for prayers. His sheet and other religious materials were seized as "contraband," and he was dumped into "the box" for protesting.

Because he is forbidden by his religion to use a razor, the young Muslim had a shadow of a beard, which was taken as a sign of dissent. Last month his family was turned away after a long journey from New York City, he charged, because he allegedly hadn't shaved. Three days later, he was dragged from his cell and shot with the knockout drug thorazin. When he came to, he had been clean-shaven.

Showering was a humiliating ordeal for the slight, 120-pound Williamson. "You walk out naked, backwards, in the middle of 10 or 12 big white guards who laugh at you," he alleged. Rather than put up with the derision, he bathed and washed his clothes in the toilet beside his bed.

After 60 days in "the box," he appeared before the superintendent's advisory committee to get his disciplinary sentence reviewed. "The whole way back from the meeting," he said, "the guards were stepping on the backs of my sneakers. I was scared, you know, and when I got back in my cell ... then they jumped me."

Elsewhere in the prison our reporter found no evidence of physical abuse. But those who became active in educational or civil rights programs encountered other forms of intimidation.

"You may not get outrightly knocked in the head," said one, "but you'll lose privileges or get tripped on the rules."

Another put it this way: "We're mentally smothered here. A man is not permitted to think for himself but leaves here so brainwashed he can't function unless he hears a billy club rap on the bars."

Inmate Tivis Hawkins, for example, was reprimanded by a guard for taking his book into the mess hall. When he proved there was no rule against this, the angry guard trumped up another charge and had Hawkins thrown into a keep-lock cell for 14 days.

Inmates complained it takes extraordinary symptoms before they are given medical attention. Several who were interviewed pointed out the scales on the sides of their mouths from Vitamin C deficiency. Yet the doctors merely coated the sores with camphor.

Conditions inside Clinton, we concluded, violate the Constitutional rights of the inmates. The Constitution guarantees that they won't be subjected to "cruel and unusual punishments."

Footnote: Most of the inmates' charges were confirmed by prison officials who were questioned privately by our reporter. The deputy superintendent, Patrick McGann, categorically denied most of the charges and then referred us to the state penal system for comment. A spokesman said Commissioner Benjamin Ward "is concerned" about the charges and will investigate them. "We always welcome any information about any allegations," said the spokesman.

People in the news

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley says he is convinced his telephone calls have been tapped for many years but he is not bitter because "in public office a lot of things happen to your rights."

"What I do is an open book," the mayor told a news conference Thursday. "I'm no saint and no sinner. Anybody can listen to my conversations."

Daley chuckled several times in telling reporters that his phones have been tapped "by a lot of people for a good many years" and even suggested "maybe it's the newspapermen."

CHICAGO (AP) — Mark Rudd, former Weather Underground leader, is reportedly in a special camp for rehabilitation in Cuba.

Attorney Luis Kutner, who specializes in international law, said he was contacted by friends of Rudd who said the former Columbia University student was being held in a camp in Pinar del Rio, a province southwest of Havana, on unspecified charges.

Kutner said he has written to the ministry of prisons in Havana to find out if and why Rudd is being detained.

Rudd of Maplewood, N.J., led a 1968 student revolt at Columbia and played a key role in organizing the Weatherman faction of the SDS.

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — Les McKeown, 20-year-old lead singer of the Bay City Rollers pop singing group, was cleared in the death of an elderly woman struck by his car. A jury, however, found him guilty Thursday of reckless driving for driving 60 miles an hour in a 30 m.p.h. zone. He was fined $315 and banned from driving for a year.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Princess Ashraf Pahlavi, twin sister of Shah Rehza Pahlavi of Iran, has made a "fervent appeal" for U.N. support of any proposal to integrate women in the process of economic development. She said Thursday that in underdeveloped nations women often find themselves "unequal in the midst of inequality."

ATLANTA (AP) — Howard "Bo" Callaway, President Ford's campaign manager, has been named board chairman of Interfinancial Inc., an insurance holding company in which he has a major interest.

The former Georgia congressman resigned the presidency of the firm in 1973 to become Secretary of the Army.

Court rules for maternity leave benefits

WASHINGTON — The women's rights movement won another Supreme Court victory recently with the overturning of a Utah law that barred unemployment benefits during an 18-week period at the time of childbirth.

The law presumed that a woman would be unable to work from the 24th week of pregnancy until six weeks after giving birth. But the court said in an unsigned opinion that some women obviously are able to work during part of this period.

The court based its action in the case on its two-year old ruling that a mandatory maternity leave policy for school teachers, arbitrarily effective in the fifth or sixth month of pregnancy, was unconstitutional because of differences among individuals.

The American Civil Liberties Union appeal was on behalf of Mary Ann Turner, who was required to stop work against her wishes because of pregnancy. The Utah Supreme Court upheld the law on the basis of the biological differences between men and women.

"She should get (the law) amended so that men share equally with women in bearing children," the state court remarked.

Before adjourning until Dec. 1, the court also agreed to review a second case dealing with abortions obtained by minors. The validity of a Massachusetts law requiring the consent of both parents will be argued later this term along with a challenge to Missouri's much more complex abortion statute.

In two actions in the field of school desegregation the court affirmed a lower court order requiring Wilmington and New Castle County, Del., to devise an inter-district plan, and rejected efforts to achieve greater desegregation in Montgomery, Ala., with increased busing and wiping out of an essentially neighborhood system.

Mothers are directors of family-owned diseases

By ERMA BOMBECK

There is one negative aspect of being a housewife that no one has ever touched upon.

We get all the diseases last.

Not only that, we have to take what everyone in the family brings us. It's like being a social director in a house of pestilence.

A couple of weeks ago, my husband dragged home in the middle of the day and said, "I don't want to panic you, but I may be going to that big car pool in the sky."

"What's the matter?"

"My head aches. My body is burning up. I am nauseated. My chest is tight and I can't make a fist. Call a specialist and bring me the TV Guide."

It was my son who complained, "I'm hot, feel like throwing up and am wobbly. Can I have ice cream for dessert?"

I put him to bed, called the pediatrician, took his mitt over to the alternate first baseman, went to school for his homework assignment, bought a coloring book, played 30 games of Old Maid and picked up a prescription at the drugstore.

The traffic at the front door was like a freeway. My husband received a plant from the secretary pool, Miss Wartz brought over 30 get-well wishes from the class, and Grandma dropped by with a light pudding and molding clay.

The morning they all went back to their respective jobs, I awoke feeling lousy. "I don't want to panic you," I said to my husband, "but if I were on Marcus Welby, M.D., I could only be a one-part episode."

"Nonsense," he said. "You've just got what the rest of us had, and we lived."

It wasn't fair. Everyone else had a cold that was the "real thing." My cold had no status, no respect . . . and could well have been stamped, "Made in Japan."

Couple honors marriage

The Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Hoffert of Pine Crest Camp near Saco recently celebrated their 50th anniversary with a party in the camp dining hall. The Hofferts were married in 1925 and were residents of Sikeston for 30 years. Hoffert was formerly minister of the Church of the Nazarene in Sikeston and is now retired. The couple has one son, Marvin Hoffert of St. Louis, and four grandchildren.

Study finds teens lack writing skills

WASHINGTON — The writing skills of teenagers — used to communicating by telephone and being entertained principally by television — have eroded in the past four years, a federally supported study reported recently.

The 1974 study by The National Assessment of Educational Progress sampled writing skills of 80,000 pupils aged 13 and 17 and compared them with samples taken in 1970.

In the four-year span, the study found there were trends toward simpler vocabulary, shorter "primer-like" sentences, more awkwardness and less coherent paragraphs.

The federally supported assessment, however, says 9-year-olds are writing better, and girls write better than boys at all ages surveyed. The assessment also found the teenagers adequate in spelling, capitalization and punctuation but there was a "drastic drop" in coherence and a trend to more fragmented sentences.

Richard Lloyd-Jones, the chairman of the Conference College Composition and Communication from the University of Iowa, said, "Our society provides less and less motivation for writing. Students question the need to master a skill they may never be called upon to use after school has ended."

Roll-and-cut cookies are easier to handle when the dough is chilled. A pastry cloth, lightly sprinkled with flour, and a stockinette rolling pin cover, help prevent the dough from sticking. Dip cookie cutters into flour before pressing into dough. And when you re-roll the trimmings, merely lay them together with edges slightly overlapping and press with a rolling pin. Wadding them together before re-rolling toughen cookies.

Ann Landers

Helpless father cries over son's drug addiction

Dear Ann Landers: Tell us again about the joys of family. We aren't convinced.

Our only child, a son, 23, has caused us more heartache than we can bear. This boy was every parent's dream until he reached 14 and started on drugs. After numerous arrests he was sent to a reform school, released on parole, and arrested shortly after for breaking and entering.

We have done everything we can think of to help straighten him out, but nothing works. We did our best -- paid out a small fortune for professional help, but no one could reach him.

We've spent hundreds of sleepless nights worrying about our son, afraid the phone would ring again -- someone asking us to come and get him (passed out from an overdose) or telling of a car accident with him dead or others killed by his recklessness.

If you'd like to see a grown man cry, look me up any day. -- His Dad.

Dear Dad: When children go wrong, it's not always the parents' fault. We now know that the genetic factor can be a dominating influence in behavorial patterns.

Some children inherit fragile nervous systems. They go haywire and crack up -- don't respond to parental love or professional help.

So stop feeling guilty. You've done your best. Angels can do no more.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell the reader who signed himself "Speechless" not to fret over those cheapies who came to his restaurant and brought cartons of Chinese food purchased at a carry- out place down the street. There's a way to put an end to such behavior.

I had a few "customers" who pulled the same stunt- only these fools brought their lunch in paper bags and sat in a booth for a full hour, drinking our water, using our salt, pepper, sugar, mustard, catsup, toothpicks and paper napkins, (They always left a mess and said "thank you" when they left.)

After a week of it, I handed them a check just as they were preparing to leave. I charged them $1 per person for the use of the booth and the items on the table.

They were shocked, refused to pay it and walked out in a huff. Needless to say I never saw them again. – Good Riddance

Dear Friend: Your signature is my comment. Good thinking!

Dear Ann Landers: A girl who started to work here a few months ago came up to me and said, "I'm told you have a beautiful voice and sing at weddings. Will you sing at mine.." I said I'd be glad to.

The wedding was beautiful. Her father must have spent a great deal of money on it. I sang three numbers and my sister accompanied me at the piano. The bride and groom and their parents were very complimentary about my singing.

A week ago the new Mrs. returned from her honeymoon. Again she thanked me for singing -- but made no mention of money. Usually I get $40 or $50. Should I send her a bill.. -- Been Had

Dear Had; Sorry, it's too late. The time to have talked about money was when she sked you to sing.

Some brides present the musician with a gift if no fee is set and the music is provided as a favor -- but you can't ask for THAT either.

Teaching your kids the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers's new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex" can spell the difference. Send 50 cents in coin, along with a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope with your request, to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois, 60120.

Fruit cake batters usually contain a high percentage of sugar and may scorch easily. To prevent scorching, line baking pans with parchment paper or plain brown wrapping paper. Two layers of white typing paper will also do. Fit paper closely to the pan shape and grease or oil lightly before adding batter.

WASHINGTON — The women's rights movement won another Supreme Court victory recently with the overturning of a Utah law that barred unemployment benefits during an 18-week period at the time of childbirth.

The law presumed that a woman would be unable to work from the 24th week of pregnancy until six weeks after giving birth. But the court said in an unsigned opinion that some women obviously are able to work during part of this period.

The court based its action in the case on its two-year old ruling that a mandatory maternity leave policy for school teachers, arbitrarily effective in the fifth or sixth month of pregnancy, was unconstitutional because of differences among individuals.

The American Civil Liberties Union appeal was on behalf of Mary Ann Turner, who was required to stop work against her wishes because of pregnancy. The Utah Supreme Court upheld the law on the basis of the biological differences between men and women.

"She should get (the law) amended so that men share equally with women in bearing children," the state court remarked.

Before adjourning until Dec. 1, the court also agreed to review a second case dealing with abortions obtained by minors. The validity of a Massachusetts law requiring the consent of both parents will be argued later this term along with a challenge to Missouri's much more complex abortion statute.

In two actions in the field of school desegregation the court affirmed a lower court order requiring Wilmington and New Castle County, Del., to devise an inter-district plan, and rejected efforts to achieve greater desegregation in Montgomery, Ala., with increased busing and wiping out of an essentially neighborhood system.

Mothers are directors of family-owned diseases

By ERMA BOMBECK

There is one negative aspect of being a housewife that no one has ever touched upon.

We get all the diseases last.

Not only that, we have to take what everyone in the family brings us. It's like being a social director in a house of pestilence.

A couple of weeks ago, my husband dragged home in the middle of the day and said, "I don't want to panic you, but I may be going to that big car pool in the sky."

"What's the matter?"

"My head aches. My body is burning up. I am nauseated. My chest is tight and I can't make a fist. Call a specialist and bring me the TV Guide."

It was my son who complained, "I'm hot, feel like throwing up and am wobbly. Can I have ice cream for dessert?"

I put him to bed, called the pediatrician, took his mitt over to the alternate first baseman, went to school for his homework assignment, bought a coloring book, played 30 games of Old Maid and picked up a prescription at the drugstore.

The traffic at the front door was like a freeway. My husband received a plant from the secretary pool, Miss Wartz brought over 30 get-well wishes from the class, and Grandma dropped by with a light pudding and molding clay.

The morning they all went back to their respective jobs, I awoke feeling lousy. "I don't want to panic you," I said to my husband, "but if I were on Marcus Welby, M.D., I could only be a one-part episode."

"Nonsense," he said. "You've just got what the rest of us had, and we lived."

It wasn't fair. Everyone else had a cold that was the "real thing." My cold had no status, no respect . . . and could well have been stamped, "Made in Japan."

Study finds teens lack writing skills

WASHINGTON — The writing skills of teenagers — used to communicating by telephone and being entertained principally by television — have eroded in the past four years, a federally supported study reported recently.

The 1974 study by The National Assessment of Educational Progress sampled writing skills of 80,000 pupils aged 13 and 17 and compared them with samples taken in 1970.

In the four-year span, the study found there were trends toward simpler vocabulary, shorter "primer-like" sentences, more awkwardness and less coherent paragraphs.

The federally supported assessment, however, says 9-year-olds are writing better, and girls write better than boys at all ages surveyed. The assessment also found the teenagers adequate in spelling, capitalization and punctuation but there was a "drastic drop" in coherence and a trend to more fragmented sentences.

Richard Lloyd-Jones, the chairman of the Conference College Composition and Communication from the University of Iowa, said, "Our society provides less and less motivation for writing. Students question the need to master a skill they may never be called upon to use after school has ended."

Roll-and-cut cookies are easier to handle when the dough is chilled. A pastry cloth, lightly sprinkled with flour, and a stockinette rolling pin cover, help prevent the dough from sticking. Dip cookie cutters into flour before pressing into dough. And when you re-roll the trimmings, merely lay them together with edges slightly overlapping and press with a rolling pin. Wadding them together before re-rolling toughen cookies.

Helpless father cries over son's drug addiction

Dear Ann Landers: Tell us again about the joys of family. We aren't convinced.

Our only child, a son, 23, has caused us more heartache than we can bear. This boy was every parent's dream until he reached 14 and started on drugs. After numerous arrests he was sent to a reform school, released on parole, and arrested shortly after for breaking and entering.

We have done everything we can think of to help straighten him out, but nothing works. We did our best -- paid out a small fortune for professional help, but no one could reach him.

We've spent hundreds of sleepless nights worrying about our son, afraid the phone would ring again -- someone asking us to come and get him (passed out from an overdose) or telling of a car accident with him dead or others killed by his recklessness.

If you'd like to see a grown man cry, look me up any day. -- His Dad.

Dear Dad: When children go wrong, it's not always the parents' fault. We now know that the genetic factor can be a dominating influence in behavorial patterns.

Some children inherit fragile nervous systems. They go haywire and crack up -- don't respond to parental love or professional help.

So stop feeling guilty. You've done your best. Angels can do no more.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell the reader who signed himself "Speechless" not to fret over those cheapies who came to his restaurant and brought cartons of Chinese food purchased at a carry- out place down the street. There's a way to put an end to such behavior.

I had a few "customers" who pulled the same stunt- only these fools brought their lunch in paper bags and sat in a booth for a full hour, drinking our water, using our salt, pepper, sugar, mustard, catsup, toothpicks and paper napkins, (They always left a mess and said "thank you" when they left.)

After a week of it, I handed them a check just as they were preparing to leave. I charged them $1 per person for the use of the booth and the items on the table.

They were shocked, refused to pay it and walked out in a huff. Needless to say I never saw them again. – Good Riddance

Dear Friend: Your signature is my comment. Good thinking!

Dear Ann Landers: A girl who started to work here a few months ago came up to me and said, "I'm told you have a beautiful voice and sing at weddings. Will you sing at mine. . ." I said I'd be glad to.

The wedding was beautiful. Her father must have spent a great deal of money on it. I sang three numbers and my sister accompanied me at the piano. The bride and groom and their parents were very complimentary about my singing.

A week ago the new Mrs. returned from her honeymoon. Again she thanked me for singing -- but made no mention of money. Usually I get $40 or $50. Should I send her a bill. . -- Been Had

Dear Had; Sorry, it's too late. The time to have talked about money was when she sked you to sing.

Some brides present the musician with a gift if no fee is set and the music is provided as a favor -- but you can't ask for THAT either.

Teaching your kids the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers's new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex" can spell the difference. Send 50 cents in coin, along with a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope with your request, to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois, 60120.

Fruit cake batters usually contain a high percentage of sugar and may scorch easily. To prevent scorching, line baking pans with parchment paper or plain brown wrapping paper. Two layers of white typing paper will also do. Fit paper closely to the pan shape and grease or oil lightly before adding batter.

ilbourn & Charleston eeded 1-2 in SHS Invitational pair of defending state champions -- the Lilbourn hers and the Charleston Bluejays -- have been ..ded one and two for the Sikeston Invitational Tournament, which begins December 1 at the SHS Field House.

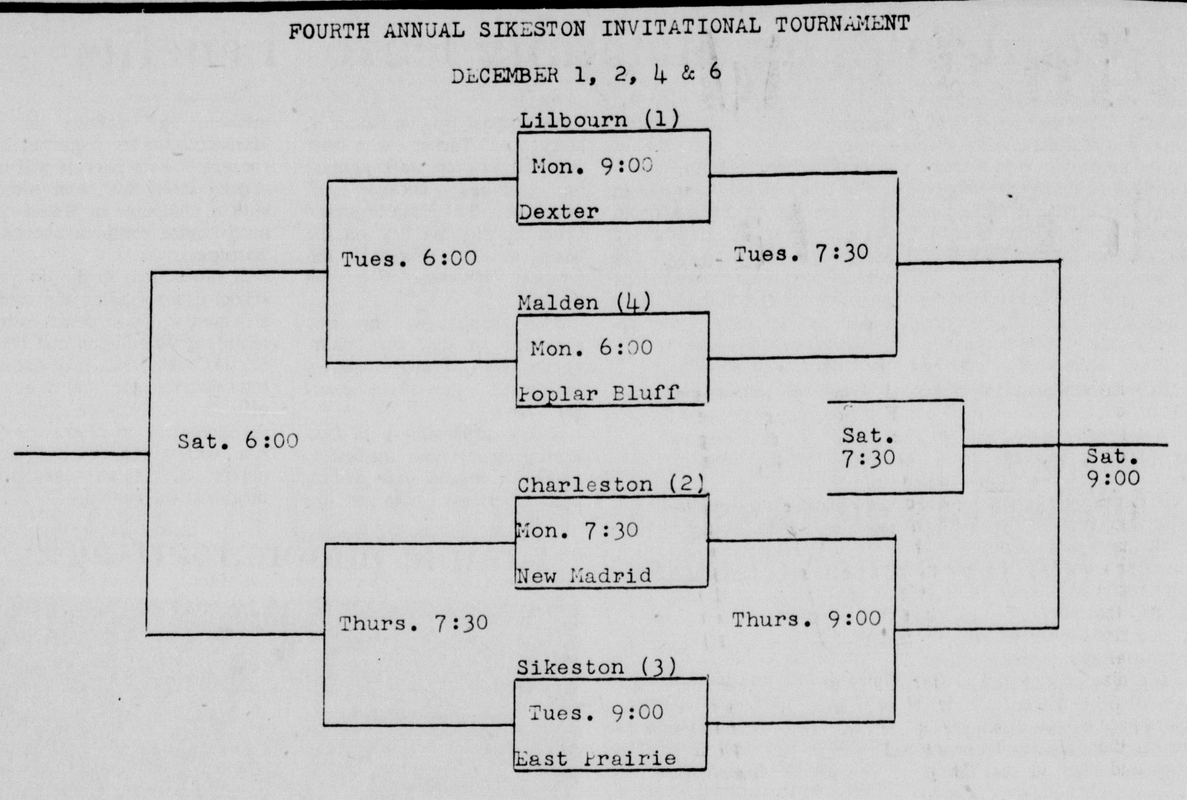
The coaches of the eight tournament teams seeded the Sikeston Bulldogs third and Malden fourth.

Lilbourn, which grabbed the Class 2-A state crown last season, drew the top seed, while the defending 3-A champs, Charleston, were seeded second.

Other teams in the tournament this year will be Dexter, Poplar Bluff and a pair of newcomers to the tournament, Malden and East Prairie. This is the fourth year for the tournament, which also includes a consolation bracket.

Lilbourn, last year's tournament winner, drew Dexter as their first round opponent for the second year in a row.

Charleston will play New Madrid, Sikeston will meet East Prairie and Malden will take on Poplar Bluff in other first round contests.



Panthers win 44th in a row

WARDELL — The Lilbourn Panthers extended their current winning streak to 44 straight with a less than convincing victory over the Delta C-7 Chargers here Thursday night in the semi-final of the NPHS Tournament, 70-60 and New Madrid walloped the Gideon Bulldogs 72-38 in the losers bracket.

The Panthers had no trouble with the less talented Chargers in the first half as coach Bob Phelps' defending class 2A champions used their speed and quickness as well as their rebounding strength to race to a 25-16 first period edge as the Chargers had their problems getting the ball down court and many bad shot selections resulted in the point total being so low.

Lilbourn continued their onslaught in the second period outscoring the Chargers 20-13 to lead 45-29 at the intermission but the Panthers went cold in the third period and couldn't buy a bucket and scored only nine points in the period. Delta C-7 never played any better in the second half but due to the lack lustre effort by Lilbourn, came within four points with three minutes left in the game before Lilbourn took charge once again.

North Pemiscot and Parma were forced to forfeit one of their games as a result of using an ineligible player. Both coaches, Jerry Luellen of North Pemiscot and Wayne Early used a player that was used last week in the Parma junior varsity tournament. Coach Luellen said that he knew the rules but forgot about it. As a result of the forfeits the second seeded North Pemiscot Mustangs were put in the losers bracket and will play Risco Friday night in the only game scheduled. Parma dropped out of the tournament because of their loss to the Mustangs Monday night giving the Pirates two losses.

As a result of the forfeits the third seeded Hayti Indians bounded into the finals Saturday night against the Lilbourn Panthers and will not have to play a semi-final game.

The New Madrid Indians remained alive in their bid for third place with the win over the hapless Gideon Bulldogs.

Mizzou & Kansas clash with SunBowl bid at stake

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Missouri and Kansas ... the oldest collegiate football rivalry west of the Mississippi.

This Saturday at Lawrence, the two ancient foes will flail away at each other for old times sake -- not to mention the bonus offer ... A chance to play still one more football game hard by the Rio Grande.

To the victor in this 84th MU-KU squabble will go the Sun Bowl bid to meet Pittsburgh in El Paso on Dec. 26. Pitt (7-3 finishes up Saturday against in-state rival Penn State- - headed for the Sugar Bowl.

Ol' Mizzou and Kansas have identical 6-4 records. They'll be squaring off Saturday before a sellout crowd of 51,500 in Memorial Stadium. Both teams last appeared in post-season bowls two years ago -- Missouri beating Auburn in the Sun Bowl, and Kansas losing to North Carolina State in the Liberty.

Once again Missouri will have to organize a defense for the Wishbone -- while the Jayhawks tighten their pass defense. Oklahoma gouged the Tigers for 368 rushing yards last Saturday. Colorado, meantime, was probing KU's injury - thinned secondary for 189 aerial yards.

The game shapes up as a duel between two talented junior quarterbacks -- Tiger passer Steve Pisarkiewicz and Nolan Cromwell, the strong option-running Kansan who became the Big Eight's first 1,000- yard rusher last week.

Zark's favorite targets are Henry Marshall, Randy Grossart and Tony Galbreath--while Cromwell has a swift ball-carrying sidekick in Laverne Smith. Mizzou's Marshall needs six receptions Saturday to overhaul Hank Burnine's 20-year-old single- season mark of 44 catches. The lanky 6-3 senior already holds the Tigers' one-game yardage haul of 209 yards (also a Big Eight record) set earlier against Oklahoma State.

Missouri opened the '75 season with a spectacular defense of Alabama's Wishbone in a 20-7 triumph at Birmingham -- but did not shut down OU's ground attack successfully Saturday, although the Sooners did punt nine times. Kansas coach Bud Moore modeled his Wishbone after his former 'bama coach, Paul "Bear" Bryant -- but theJayhawks have not used the forward pass as effectively.

The emotional level of both teams could be a significant factor. Coach Al Onofrio's gang was highly motivated for its struggle withOklahoma -- and the narrow defeat could leave carryover scars. Kansas also is trying to recoup after a touch 24-21 setback.

Likewise, two placekickers whose misfires had a bearing on last Saturday's losses will be looking for redemptive chances in this season's finale. Tiger tim Gibbons was off-target on three field goal tries and had his first PAT go astray after 30 straight conversions. Dennis Kerbel of Kansas missed one field goal, and was victimized by a poor center snap on another. Kerbel, a freshman, is nursing a gimpy knee.

The Missourians plan to complement Zark's aerial act with the 1-2 running tandem of Galbreath nnd Curtis Brown. Rich Dansdill, 225-pound freshman from Burlington, Ia., also will be backstopped by senior John Blakeman-- who sat out the last two games with a knee injury.

Nineteen Missouri seniors will be finishingup at Lawrence, unless a bowl opportunity is forthcoming. The offensive regulars in this group are: tight end Charley Douglass, split end Marshall, guard Mike Owens, tailback Galbreath and slotback Randy Grossart. Blakeman also was a fullback starter until his injury.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Bettors got an unexpected pay off this week at Keystone Race Track in suburban Bucks County.

A disgruntled bettor sneaked into the betting booth before the eighth race Wednesday and threw $14,333 out the window to the line of bettors, police said. By the time track officials were able to move the crowd aside to collect the money, less than $50 was found.

Although the cashier was unable to prevent his cash drawer from being thrown out, he did catch William C. Cuccagna, 24 o$ Trenton, N.J., according to police.

Cuccagna, who had been on an extended losing streak, took no money himself and told police he was a "loser."

Lilbourn continued their onslaught in the second period outscoring the Chargers 20-13 to lead 45-29 at the intermission but the Panthers went cold in the third period and couldn't buy a bucket and scored only nine points in the period. Delta C-7 never played any better in the second half but due to the lack lustre effort by Lilbourn, came within four points with three minutes left in the game before Lilbourn took charge once again.

North Pemiscot and Parma were forced to forfeit one of their games as a result of using an ineligible player. Both coaches, Jerry Luellen of North Pemiscot and Wayne Early used a player that was used last week in the Parma junior varsity tournament. Coach Luellen said that he knew the rules but forgot about it. As a result of the forfeits the second seeded North Pemiscot Mustangs were put in the losers bracket and will play Risco Friday night in the only game scheduled. Parma dropped out of the tournament because of their loss to the Mustangs Monday night giving the Pirates two losses.

As a result of the forfeits the third seeded Hayti Indians bounded into the finals Saturday night against the Lilbourn Panthers and will not have to play a semi-final game.

The New Madrid Indians remained alive in their bid for third place with the win over the hapless Gideon Bulldogs.

Mizzou & Kansas clash with SunBowl bid at stake

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Missouri and Kansas ... the oldest collegiate football rivalry west of the Mississippi.

This Saturday at Lawrence, the two ancient foes will flail away at each other for old times sake -- not to mention the bonus offer ... A chance to play still one more football game hard by the Rio Grande.

To the victor in this 84th MU-KU squabble will go the Sun Bowl bid to meet Pittsburgh in El Paso on Dec. 26. Pitt (7-3 finishes up Saturday against in-state rival Penn State- - headed for the Sugar Bowl.

Ol' Mizzou and Kansas have identical 6-4 records. They'll be squaring off Saturday before a sellout crowd of 51,500 in Memorial Stadium. Both teams last appeared in post-season bowls two years ago -- Missouri beating Auburn in the Sun Bowl, and Kansas losing to North Carolina State in the Liberty.

Once again Missouri will have to organize a defense for the Wishbone -- while the Jayhawks tighten their pass defense. Oklahoma gouged the Tigers for 368 rushing yards last Saturday. Colorado, meantime, was probing KU's injury - thinned secondary for 189 aerial yards.

The game shapes up as a duel between two talented junior quarterbacks -- Tiger passer Steve Pisarkiewicz and Nolan Cromwell, the strong option-running Kansan who became the Big Eight's first 1,000- yard rusher last week.

Zark's favorite targets are Henry Marshall, Randy Grossart and Tony Galbreath--while Cromwell has a swift ball-carrying sidekick in Laverne Smith. Mizzou's Marshall needs six receptions Saturday to overhaul Hank Burnine's 20-year-old single- season mark of 44 catches. The lanky 6-3 senior already holds the Tigers' one-game yardage haul of 209 yards (also a Big Eight record) set earlier against Oklahoma State.

Missouri opened the '75 season with a spectacular defense of Alabama's Wishbone in a 20-7 triumph at Birmingham -- but did not shut down OU's ground attack successfully Saturday, although the Sooners did punt nine times. Kansas coach Bud Moore modeled his Wishbone after his former 'bama coach, Paul "Bear" Bryant -- but theJayhawks have not used the forward pass as effectively.

The emotional level of both teams could be a significant factor. Coach Al Onofrio's gang was highly motivated for its struggle withOklahoma -- and the narrow defeat could leave carryover scars. Kansas also is trying to recoup after a touch 24-21 setback.

Likewise, two placekickers whose misfires had a bearing on last Saturday's losses will be looking for redemptive chances in this season's finale. Tiger tim Gibbons was off-target on three field goal tries and had his first PAT go astray after 30 straight conversions. Dennis Kerbel of Kansas missed one field goal, and was victimized by a poor center snap on another. Kerbel, a freshman, is nursing a gimpy knee.

The Missourians plan to complement Zark's aerial act with the 1-2 running tandem of Galbreath nnd Curtis Brown. Rich Dansdill, 225-pound freshman from Burlington, Ia., also will be backstopped by senior John Blakeman-- who sat out the last two games with a knee injury.

Nineteen Missouri seniors will be finishingup at Lawrence, unless a bowl opportunity is forthcoming. The offensive regulars in this group are: tight end Charley Douglass, split end Marshall, guard Mike Owens, tailback Galbreath and slotback Randy Grossart. Blakeman also was a fullback starter until his injury.

Senior defensive starters are: end bob McRoberts, tackle Tom Cooper and cornerback Ken Downing.

A disgruntled bettor sneaked into the betting booth before the eighth race Wednesday and threw $14,333 out the window to the line of bettors, police said. By the time track officials were able to move the crowd aside to collect the money, less than $50 was found.

Although the cashier was unable to prevent his cash drawer from being thrown out, he did catch William C. Cuccagna, 24 of Trenton, N.J., according to police.

Cuccagna, who had been on an extended losing streak, took no money himself and told police he was a "loser."

Final grid statistics dominated by North

By DALE FORBIS

Keeping statistics for 17 football teams for a whole season is a herculean task, to say the least. For the first seven weeks, Charlie Francis took care of the job. Then, with his added responsibilities upon Ron Jaynes departure, I assumed the task and became more respectful of what he had to deal with.

Only three or four of the coaches failed to cooperate with us this year and we wish to thank right now those who did take time from their many duties to mail us their stats. We have made our list of districtr leaders in the four major categories as complete as time and space will allow us. If your favorite player had more yards gained that one in our rankings, but he happened to be left out, please don't get mad. We've included all the stats that the coaches have mailed us to date.

The district was full of fine individual performers, as well as teams. Although each leader of each category is a member of a Northern division team, except for one, the South and Bootheel teams did quite well for themselves this year. There were six thousand yard rushers this year, an unusually high total. James Wiles, a Sikeston back who came very close to the SHS record for rushing yardage, finished just ninth in the district rankings. Mike Moss, with 1531 yards, led all of the area runners.

Caruthersville's Audie Tarpley was the lone non-North leader in the psssing department. Tarpley completed nearly 60 percent of his 148 passes, by far the leading figures in this, the year of the running back.

Moss also led in points scored. His 134 points were well ahead of the 102 scored by Rob Goodwin, giving the district two scorers over the century mark for the first time in years.

Kennett's Roland Johnson, although overlooked on the All-Conference team, salvaged some pride for the 1-8 Indians by being the leading receiver in the district.

We salute these young men for their accomplishments and we commend all of this year's "new" powers, all the trams that had been down and came back to shake up the establishment in the SEMO conference. East Prairie Eagles, Caruthersville Tigers, Sikestonk Bulldogs, Jackson Indians ... congratulations. This was your year and we wish you continued success.

Ohio St. & Michigan meet for Big Ten crown

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — It's for all the marbles, as they say. Or, in this case, all the roses. Or all the oranges.

The 1975 Big Ten football championship, as just about everyone has come to expect the last eight years, boils down to Saturday's Ohio State-Michigan battle.

A record college crowd of 105,000, plus a national television audience, is expected to watch the conference's "Big Two" clash in a game which could decide the national championship.

Ohio State, 10-0 over-all and 7-0 in the conference, is ranked No. 1. Michigan, 8-0-2 and 7-0, is No. 4.

The last time a team other than Michigan or Ohio State won the conference title was 1967, when Indiana, Minnesota and Purdue tied for first. The series between the arch rivals since OSU entered the league in 1913 stands at 27-27-3.

This is the 72nd meeting of the teams. Including games before 1913, Michigan leads the series 39-27-5.

Last year, Ohio State won 12-10 on four field goals by Tom Klaban and the Buckeyes went to the Rose Bowl for the third straight time. That was the first time in six years they hadn't crossed an opponents' goal line.

Ohio State was conference champion in 1968. The rivals shared the title in 1969. Ohio State won in 1970,....Michigan in 1971 and they have shared it the last three years.

Saturday's winner will go to the Rose Bowl. The loser will go to the Orange Bowl — the first time a conference runner-up has been allowed to go to another bowl game. If there's a tie, the Buckeyes would go to Pasadena because of a better over-all record.

Michigan's ties were at home against Stanford and Baylor. The Wolverines haven't lost at home in 41 consecutive games.

"This is the greatest rivalry in college football," said Woody Hayes, the Buckeyes' coach for 25 years. "Our season boils down to this game and that is just the way it should be."

Bo Schembechler, former assistant under Hayes and now in his seventh year as Michigan's coach, said he hopes his Wolverines "play like all Michigan teams in the past have played in this game.

"The bowl situation is not primary at this time. We know we're going to a bowl, but the primary thing is the Big Ten championship."

The last four games in the series have been defensive struggles. Ohio State has totaled 43 points, Michigan 41.

Michigan's consistently tough defense must contend with Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin. The senior tailback has 31 consecutive regular-season games with more than 100 yards rushingand has rushed for a record 5,450 yards in 44 games, including three Rose Bowls.

Junior fullback Pete Johnson, who has a Big Ten record 22 touchdowns this year, and senior quarterback Cornelius Greene round out the Buckeye backfield.

Tailback Gordon Bell and fullback Rob Lytle are Michigan's offensive standouts. Bell has gained 1,211 yards rushing and scored 12 touchdowns while Lytle has run for 894 yards.

Freshman quarterback Rick Leach has completed only 35 per cent of his passes, but has rushed for 472 yards.

Sonny Eaton of Morehouse bagged an eight-point buck last Saturday while deer hunting in Carter County. The deer was Eaton's first.

Bulldogs to play Jayvees tonight

Sikeston Bulldog basketball fans will get a sneak preview of what should be an exciting 1975-76 roundball team tonight when the team will play an intra-squad exhibition game beginning at 7:00 at the Field House.

Admission to the varsity vs. junior varsity matchup will be one bar of soap. The Bulldogs will take the court at 6:30 for the benefit of photographers, according to coach Buddy Spears.

The Bulldogs will launch the new season Tuesday, December 2 when they meet East Prairie in the opening round of the Sikeston Invitational Tournament.

Final grid statistics dominated by North

By DALE FORBIS

Keeping statistics for 17 football teams for a whole season is a herculean task, to say the least. For the first seven weeks, Charlie Francis took care of the job. Then, with his added responsibilities upon Ron Jaynes departure, I assumed the task and became more respectful of what he had to deal with.

Only three or four of the coaches failed to cooperate with us this year and we wish to thank right now those who did take time from their many duties to mail us their stats. We have made our list of districtr leaders in the four major categories as complete as time and space will allow us. If your favorite player had more yards gained that one in our rankings, but he happened to be left out, please don't get mad. We've included all the stats that the coaches have mailed us to date.

The district was full of fine individual performers, as well as teams. Although each leader of each category is a member of a Northern division team, except for one, the South and Bootheel teams did quite well for themselves this year. There were six thousand yard rushers this year, an unusually high total. James Wiles, a Sikeston back who came very close to the SHS record for rushing yardage, finished just ninth in the district rankings. Mike Moss, with 1531 yards, led all of the area runners.

Caruthersville's Audie Tarpley was the lone non-North leader in the pssing department. Tarpley completed nearly 60 percent of his 148 passes, by far the leading figures in this, the year of the running back.

Moss also led in points scored. His 134 points were well ahead of the 102 scored by Rob Goodwin, giving the district two scorers over the century mark for the first time in years.

Kennett's Roland Johnson, although overlooked on the All-Conference team, salvaged some pride for the 1-8 Indians by being the leading receiver in the district.

We salute these young men for their accomplishments and we commend all of this year's "new" powers, all the trams that had been down and came back to shake up the establishment in the SEMO conference. East Prairie Eagles, Caruthersville Tigers, Sikestonk Bulldogs, Jackson Indians ... congratulations. This was your year and we wish you continued success.

Ohio St. & Michigan meet for Big Ten crown

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — It's for all the marbles, as they say. Or, in this case, all the roses. Or all the oranges.

The 1975 Big Ten football championship, as just about everyone has come to expect the last eight years, boils down to Saturday's Ohio State-Michigan battle.

A record college crowd of 105,000, plus a national television audience, is expected to watch the conference's "Big Two" clash in a game which could decide the national championship.

Ohio State, 10-0 over-all and 7-0 in the conference, is ranked No. 1. Michigan, 8-0-2 and 7-0, is No. 4.

The last time a team other than Michigan or Ohio State won the conference title was 1967, when Indiana, Minnesota and Purdue tied for first. The series between the arch rivals since OSU entered the league in 1913 stands at 27-27-3.

This is the 72nd meeting of the teams. Including games before 1913, Michigan leads the series 39-27-5.

Last year, Ohio State won 12-10 on four field goals by Tom Klaban and the Buckeyes went to the Rose Bowl for the third straight time. That was the first time in six years they hadn't crossed an opponents' goal line.

Ohio State was conference champion in 1968. The rivals shared the title in 1969. Ohio State won in 1970, ...Michigan in 1971 and they have shared it the last three years.

Saturday's winner will go to the Rose Bowl. The loser will go to the Orange Bowl — the first time a conference runner-up has been allowed to go to another bowl game. If there's a tie, the Buckeyes would go to Pasadena because of a better over-all record.

Michigan's ties were at home against Stanford and Baylor. The Wolverines haven't lost at home in 41 consecutive games.

"This is the greatest rivalry in college football," said Woody Hayes, the Buckeyes' coach for 25 years. "Our season boils down to this game and that is just the way it should be."

Bo Schembechler, former assistant under Hayes and now in his seventh year as Michigan's coach, said he hopes his Wolverines "play like all Michigan teams in the past have played in this game.

"The bowl situation is not primary at this time. We know we're going to a bowl, but the primary thing is the Big Ten championship."

The last four games in the series have been defensive struggles. Ohio State has totaled 43 points, Michigan 41.

Michigan's consistently tough defense must contend with Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin. The senior tailback has 31 consecutive regular-season games with more than 100 yards rushingand has rushed for a record 5,450 yards in 44 games, including three Rose Bowls.

Junior fullback Pete Johnson, who has a Big Ten record 22 touchdowns this year, and senior quarterback Cornelius Greene round out the Buckeye backfield.

Tailback Gordon Bell and fullback Rob Lytle are Michigan's offensive standouts. Bell has gained 1,211 yards rushing and scored 12 touchdowns while Lytle has run for 894 yards.

Freshman quarterback Rick Leach has completed only 35 per cent of his passes, but has rushed for 472 yards.

Sonny Eaton of Morehouse bagged an eight-point buck last Saturday while deer hunting in Carter County. The deer was Eaton's first.

Bulldogs to play Jayvees tonight

Sikeston Bulldog basketball fans will get a sneak preview of what should be an exciting 1975-76 roundball team tonight when the team will play an intra-squad exhibition game beginning at 7:00 at the Field House.

Admission to the varsity vs. junior varsity matchup will be one bar of soap. The Bulldogs will take the court at 6:30 for the benefit of photographers, according to coach Buddy Spears.

The Bulldogs will launch the new season Tuesday, December 2 when they meet East Prairie in the opening round of the Sikeston Invitational Tournament.

What's the law?

The case of the outraged Americans

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

A state law was enacted that provided a hefty $2,000 fine and-or seven years in the slammer for anyone discouraging anyone else from enlisting in the United States Armed Forces. Almost immediately, a group of outraged citizens declared war on the law. And, un-in-arms, they held their first skirmish in court.

"That law couldn't be any more un-American," they told the judge, had it been written by George the III and his red coats. What it does, in effect, is to gag free expression. It prevents people from voicing their opposition to unpopular wars."

"No war is popular," was the response. "It's just that some wars are less unpopular than others. And, if we find ourselves involved in one, the object is not to handicap the country in its operations. Therefore, the statute under attack is both reasonable and necessary. The good of the country comes first."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the legality of the statute? This is how the judge ruled: NO: The judge held that the statute was much too broad a restriction on free speech. Since it is not a crime not to volunteer one's services to the military, noted the judge, the statute, by threat of prosecution, prohibited the urging of a lawful act.

Dr. Lamb

Diabetic needs to lose weight

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am borderline diabetic, 52 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, and weigh about 134 pounds. The doctor wants me to get down to 130. The latest glucose reading, without medication, on a restricted diet in the hospital was 143. Now I am on a 2000 calorie diet and find that I am so stuffed. I got permission to cut down but to keep the diet balanced. With an underactive thyroid wouldn't this be one reason I find losing weight so hard? I take 1 mg of Synthyroid daily.

DEAR READER — Your doctor is very wise in helping you to lose weight. Many mild diabetics can be controlled by diet alone, and that usually means eliminating any excess obesity and keeping the fat off thereafter.

Unfortunately, 2000 calories a day is too much for many women. You can have a balanced diet and get down to 1200 calories a day, if you need to, in order to lose weight. Send in 50 cents for The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Then take the diet to your doctor, and be sure he agrees that you can be on it.

I would like to add a word of caution. Diabetics should never go on a diet without their doctor's permission. That is especially true if the diabetic is taking insulin or medicine to lower the blood glucose. The insulin requirements are balanced against the amount of food you eat. If you cut down on your food you usually need to cut down on your insulin.

A borderline diabetic not on medicine does not have this problem.

A similar situation exists regarding exercise, but is more often neglected. Exercise burns up calories and lowers blood sugar. Unusual exercise may decrease the insulin requirements or increase the food requirements to avoid an insulin reaction. A diabetic needs to live a fairly regulated life if he is to use a regular, constant amount of medicine for his blood sugar.

A regular exercise program will help you with your diet program. The whole idea is to have a daily negative balance of calories, in other words to spend more than you take in — deficit spending, if you will. There are two sides to the coin on doing that. One is to limit your calorie intake, and the other is to increase your calorie use, and exercise helps with the latter.

A low thyroid function will decrease the amount of calories that your body will use at rest. This will make losing weight more difficult. For other readers I hasten to add that many people who are overweight have normal thyroids and that is usually not the problem.

When you take thyroid medicine it will supplement the amount of thyroid hormone formed by your own gland. If you are taking enough then you should really have normal thyroid function. Incidentally, excess thyroid hormone can lead to elevated blood sugar levels, so can a variety of medicines, including diuretics used to eliminate fluid before menstrual periods and in treatment of high blood pressure or for any fluid retention problem.

Dr. Lamb

Diabetic needs to lose weight

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am borderline diabetic, 52 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, and weigh about 134 pounds. The doctor wants me to get down to 130. The latest glucose reading, without medication, on a restricted diet in the hospital was 143. Now I am on a 2000 calorie diet and find that I am so stuffed. I got permission to cut down but to keep the diet balanced. With an underactive thyroid wouldn't this be one reason I find losing weight so hard? I take 1 mg of Synthyroid daily.

DEAR READER — Your doctor is very wise in helping you to lose weight. Many mild diabetics can be controlled by diet alone, and that usually means eliminating any excess obesity and keeping the fat off thereafter.

Unfortunately, 2000 calories a day is too much for many women. You can have a balanced diet and get down to 1200 calories a day, if you need to, in order to lose weight. Send in 50 cents for The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Then take the diet to your doctor, and be sure he agrees that you can be on it.

I would like to add a word of caution. Diabetics should never go on a diet without their doctor's permission. That is especially true if the diabetic is taking insulin or medicine to lower the blood glucose. The insulin requirements are balanced against the amount of food you eat. If you cut down on your food you usually need to cut down on your insulin.

A borderline diabetic not on medicine does not have this problem.

A similar situation exists regarding exercise, but is more often neglected. Exercise burns up calories and lowers blood sugar. Unusual exercise may decrease the insulin requirements or increase the food requirements to avoid an insulin reaction. A diabetic needs to live a fairly regulated life if he is to use a regular, constant amount of medicine for his blood sugar.

A regular exercise program will help you with your diet program. The whole idea is to have a daily negative balance of calories, in other words to spend more than you take in — deficit spending, if you will. There are two sides to the coin on doing that. One is to limit your calorie intake, and the other is to increase your calorie use, and exercise helps with the latter.

A low thyroid function will decrease the amount of calories that your body will use at rest. This will make losing weight more difficult. For other readers I hasten to add that many people who are overweight have normal thyroids and that is usually not the problem.

When you take thyroid medicine it will supplement the amount of thyroid hormone formed by your own gland. If you are taking enough then you should really have normal thyroid function. Incidentally, excess thyroid hormone can lead to elevated blood sugar levels, so can a variety of medicines, including diuretics used to eliminate fluid before menstrual periods and in treatment of high blood pressure or for any fluid retention problem.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Nov. 21, the 325th day of 1975. There are 40 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1877, Thomas Edison announced that he had invented a talking machine. He called it the phonograph.

On this date:

In 1806, Napoleon Bonaparte issued the Berlin Decrees, declaring a blockade of the British Isles.

In 1855, Sweden joined Britain, France and Turkey in an alliance against Russia.

In 1894, the Japanese captured the Manchurian city of Port Arthur.

In 1938, the western border areas of Czechoslovakia were forcibly incorporated into the German Reich.

In 1961, West Berlin police turned back thousands of West Berlin university students trying to storm the Communist barriers dividing Berlin.

In 1970, U.S. planes launched raids against North Vietnam.

Ten years ago: Washington sources denied reports that Rumania had offered to mediate in the Vietnam War.

Five years ago: U.S. planes carried out heavy raids against North Vietnam in retaliation for attacks on American reconnaissance planes.

One year ago: President Ford arrived in Seoul for talks with South Korean officials.

Today's birthdays: Actress Vivian Blaine is 54. Baseball's Stan Musial is 55.

Thought for today: Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning — the Psalms.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the British parliament voted to confiscate all American ships and force their crewmen to join the Royal Navy.

First Methodist to expand staff

The Rev. Ralph Dodson

The Rev. Neil Stein, of Poplar Bluff, district superintendent of the Poplar Bluff- Sikeston District of the United Methodist Church, has approved the appointment of the Rev. Ralph H. Doson as associate pastor of First United Methodist Church in Sikeston, effective Jan. 1, 1976.

The Rev. Mr. Dodson is a native Scott Countian, having been born northeast of Sikeston. He attended high school at Morley and his first school teaching job was at Greer, located three and a half miles west of Sikeston, when he was 16 years old.

Already well known in Sikeston, he served as interim pastor of First United Methodist Church for three months, following the death of The Rev. Joseph H. Wagner. At that time he was teaching sociology at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau and drove to Sikestson on weekends to serve the church.

The Rev. Mr. Dodson has served 52 years under appointment of the church, as a pastor, approved evangelist, college professor, college registrar and college president. He also has served as a missionary teacher in Japan and the Philippines, where he served as pastor of Central United Methodist Church in Davao City on the island of Mindanao. He has made two trips to Korea and Taiwan for evangelestic crusades and three trips to Hong Kong and the Philippines.

He earned a bachelor of arts degree at Bethel College in McKenzie, Tenn.., and a master of arts degree from George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn. He also completed one year of advanced study in sociology and geology at Michigan State University in Lansing, Mich.

In 1966, he was listed in Who's Who In The Methodist Church, and in 1971, he received a singular honor when he was chosen for listing with biological sketch in "Dictionary of International Biography", a reference work published in London, England and placed in libraries in 12 nations. Persons listed in the publication were chosen on the basis of achievement in their chosen fields.

The Rev. Mr. Dodson is married to the former Louise Crawford of Dexter. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in June 1973. They have two sons, a daughter and eight grandchildren. The Dodsons live at 404 Virginia St.

Weekend revival planned

BERTRAND--A gospel team from Oakland City College at Oakland City, Ind., will lead weekend revival services Saturday night and Sunday at the Bertrand General Baptist Church.

The team will present both preaching and singing during services at 7 p.m. Saturday and 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday.

Grady Jones, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert I. Jones, pastor of the host church, and a student at Oakland City College, is a member of the revival team which includes two boys and two girls.

Film on prophecy scheduled

BERTRAND - "A Thief In The Night, a color film about Bible prophecy, will be shown tonight at 7:30 in the Bertrand Church of God of Prophecy on Elm Street.

"A Thief In The Night" shows what can happen when Jesus Christ returns. The story centers around Patty, an average girl caught up in living for the present with little concern about the future, and what happens when this kind of thinking finally catches up with her.

"A Thief In The Night" was given the "Best Film of the Year" award by the National Evangelical Film Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa., and the lead actress, Patty Dunning, was given the Outstanding Female Actress award at the same time.

Calvary to host Wilkerson film

David Wilkerson's explosive new film, "Return to Sodom", will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday at Calvary Assembly Church, 127 W. Trotter St., the Rev. T.A. McDonough, pastor, has announced.

The full-color, 50-minute film is a documentary of the phenomenal outbreak of witchcraft, homosexuality, cult religions and the decline of moral standards in the United States.

"Return to Sodom" took a full year to film. The realism is startling. The viewer is taken to Mardi Gras in New Orleans, to Central Park in New York City where the largest gathering of homosexuals in history was held. Witchcraft, Hari Krishna meetings and communion in a homosexual church are unveiled.

The purpose of this unusual film is to make the prophecy of Christ, "As it was in the days of Lot, so shall it also be in the days of the coming of Christ," come to life.

Ministers and laymen alike have acclaimed the film one of the most relevant and important films released in religious circles today.

Also, this Sunday Calvary Assembly will observe its annual Old Fashioned Day. Special awards will be given for the man, woman, boy and girl judged to have the best old-fashioned costume.

Although many will choose to wear old-fashioned costumes, it is optional and many others will not.

Ormond-produced film to be shown

Ron Ormond, who produced and directed "The Burning Hell", a film coming to First Church of the Nazarene, Highway 61 North, at 6 p.m. Sunday, and also spearheads the Ormond Organization likes to state that his family is living proof of the spiritual adage, "the family who prays together, stays together."

His wife, June, heads the business end and the distribution department of the former Hollywood-based motion picture company. Their son, Tim, works with his father as crew chief during production and also is studying for the ministry.

Before accepting Christ as his savior, Ormond worked in the major studios of Hollywood doing motion pictures with some of the most important stars.

When Hollywood departed from the theme of family films and started on a course of sex and violence, Ormond packed his camera and joined Lowell Thomas filming segments of "High Adventure", then the nation's No. 1 TV adventure program. After that assignment, Ormond moved his family to Nashville, Tenn., and enrolled Tim in a Christian academy.

In Nashville, they started making theatrical motion pictures of the country-western variety, getting their talent from the popular Grand Ole Opry. "We didn't know then," Ron Ormond stated, "that all of this was being directed toward the Lord's end."

Flying their airplane to a premiere in Louisville, Ky., things began happening shortly after takeoff. First the engine began missing, then moments afterwards, the engine froze. "Beneath us," Ormond pointed out, "was nothing but trees, high tension wires and houses.

"That's when I prayed. God please don't let us be killed. If you will spare our lives, I will devote the rest of mine to Your service."

Moments later the plane crashed to the ground and slid across a rocky field then came to an abrupt halt. Parts of the plane was everywhere, but miraculously there was no explosion or fire.

"June and I were hospitalized for awhile, but our son Tim escaped without a scratch," Ormond said.

Sometime later, the family prayed together and Ron accepted Christ and reaffirmed his vow to do what God wanted. Two days later an old friend called and wanted to know if he was interested in doing a gospel film. The answer was an immediate yes!

That was the beginning of what has turned into a great blessing for the former Hollywood-based Ormond Organization. Now with five gospel films to their credit, the Ormond family plans more productions.

"But all must be taken from the Bible," Tim adds quickly.

"The Burning Hell" was made in conjunction with Evangelist Estus Pirkle.

The Rev. Eldon Russell, pastor of the host church, said no admission will be charged, but a free will offering will be taken.

Questions arise about Bible City

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — "They always seem to be away," said one among the many who for two weeks or so have been trying to talk to the principal promoters of Bible City, a $20 million Bible-oriented recreation park they proposed to build just south of Springfield.

The name disappeared from the office where Bill Caywood, executive director, managed a crew of solicitors seeking donations or trying to sell for construction of Bible City.

Caywood's absence began about the time it became known in Springield that he had promoted similar but aborted projects at Cambridge, Ohio, Mobile, Ala., and near Fort Worth Tex.

On Nov. 14, a secretary in the office responded to inquiries by reading a statement that there would be no more activity on Bible City until an offering of securities to the public was approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington and it had qualified with state authorities.

As recently as Tuesday, Caywood's former office said he was on the West Coast to be with a sister who was not expected to live.

An inquiry about Russell Phillips, who operates several businesses out of the same office, brought the response that he was in Oklahoma because his parents were gravely ill.

"There are some questions I'd like to ask," said the Rev. John Spence, a Southern Baptist evangelist and director of United Christian Fund of Springfield. He had taken steps to link up with Caywood on the Bible City project.

Dr. Dorsey E. Levell, executive director of the Springfield Area Council of Churches, said there are serious unanswered questions about Bible City and the plan to finance it but it is now mostly a joke among Springfield residents.

The council began getting inquiries early in September, mainly from small communities near Springfield, about solicitors asking for donations or attempting to sell bonds for Bible City.

James Craig, director of the Springfield Better Business Bureau, had a conference with Caywood.

"A slick promotion job, complete with slides and fancy drawings," Craig said of the Bible City campaign.

Craig said he got only vague and unsubstantiated answers when he asked the promoters what security they had for buyers of their $3,000 to $4,000 bonds. He said he was given to understand that Phillips owned numerous subdivision lots in the booming Table Rock recreation area in the Ozarks south of Springfield.

Bible City's applications for membership in the Better Business Bureau and the Springfield Chamber of Commerce were rejected.

Craig said Progressive Investors, Inc., one of the Phillips enterprises, has never responded satisfactorily to inquiries from the Better Business Bureau.

First Methodist to expand staff

The Rev. Ralph Dodson

The Rev. Neil Stein, of Poplar Bluff, district superintendent of the Poplar Bluff- Sikeston District of the United Methodist Church, has approved the appointment of the Rev. Ralph H. Doson as associate pastor of First United Methodist Church in Sikeston, effective Jan. 1, 1976.

The Rev. Mr. Dodson is a native Scott Countian, having been born northeast of Sikeston. He attended high school at Morley and his first school teaching job was at Greer, located three and a half miles west of Sikeston, when he was 16 years old.

Already well known in Sikeston, he served as interim pastor of First United Methodist Church for three months, following the death of The Rev. Joseph H. Wagner. At that time he was teaching sociology at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau and drove to Sikestson on weekends to serve the church.

The Rev. Mr. Dodson has served 52 years under appointment of the church, as a pastor, approved evangelist, college professor, college registrar and college president. He also has served as a missionary teacher in Japan and the Philippines, where he served as pastor of Central United Methodist Church in Davao City on the island of Mindanao. He has made two trips to Korea and Taiwan for evangelestic crusades and three trips to Hong Kong and the Philippines.

He earned a bachelor of arts degree at Bethel College in McKenzie, Tenn.., and a master of arts degree from George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn. He also completed one year of advanced study in sociology and geology at Michigan State University in Lansing, Mich.

In 1966, he was listed in Who's Who In The Methodist Church, and in 1971, he received a singular honor when he was chosen for listing with biological sketch in "Dictionary of International Biography", a reference work published in London, England and placed in libraries in 12 nations. Persons listed in the publication were chosen on the basis of achievement in their chosen fields.

The Rev. Mr. Dodson is married to the former Louise Crawford of Dexter. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in June 1973. They have two sons, a daughter and eight grandchildren. The Dodsons live at 404 Virginia St.

Weekend revival planned

BERTRAND--A gospel team from Oakland City College at Oakland City, Ind., will lead weekend revival services Saturday night and Sunday at the Bertrand General Baptist Church.

The team will present both preaching and singing during services at 7 p.m. Saturday and 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday.

Grady Jones, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert I. Jones, pastor of the host church, and a student at Oakland City College, is a member of the revival team which includes two boys and two girls.

Film on prophecy scheduled

BERTRAND - "A Thief In The Night, a color film about Bible prophecy, will be shown tonight at 7:30 in the Bertrand Church of God of Prophecy on Elm Street.

"A Thief In The Night" shows what can happen when Jesus Christ returns. The story centers around Patty, an average girl caught up in living for the present with little concern about the future, and what happens when this kind of thinking finally catches up with her.

"A Thief In The Night" was given the "Best Film of the Year" award by the National Evangelical Film Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa., and the lead actress, Patty Dunning, was given the Outstanding Female Actress award at the same time.

The film was produced by Mark IV Pictures, Inc. of Des Moines, Iowa.

Union event set Monday

MALDEN - A union Thanksgiving service will be held Monday night at Mt. Gilead General Baptist Church.

The service, sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. W. F. Cravens will have charge of the special illustrated Thanksgiving service.

Gospel singing program slated Saturday night

A gospel singing program will be presented at 7:30 Saturday in the Pentecostal Holiness Church, 328 W. North St., according to the Rev. Freeman Parker, pastor.

The program will feature the United Quartet of St. Louis and a number of local singers.

Harvest Day dinner planned

TALLAPOOSA—First Southern Baptist Church of Tallapoosa will host its annual Harvest Day dinner with a covered-dish meal at the church dining room Saturday at 6 p.m.

Calvary to host Wilkerson film

David Wilkerson's explosive new film, "Return to Sodom", will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday at Calvary Assembly Church, 127 W. Trotter St., the Rev. T.A. McDonough, pastor, has announced.

The full-color, 50-minute film is a documentary of the phenomenal outbreak of witchcraft, homosexuality, cult religions and the decline of moral standards in the United States.

"Return to Sodom" took a full year to film. The realism is startling. The viewer is taken to Mardi Gras in New Orleans, to Central Park in New York City where the largest gathering of homosexuals in history was held. Witchcraft, Hari Krishna meetings and communion in a homosexual church are unveiled.

The purpose of this unusual film is to make the prophecy of Christ, "As it was in the days of Lot, so shall it also be in the days of the coming of Christ," come to life.

Ministers and laymen alike have acclaimed the film one of the most relevant and important films released in religious circles today.

Also, this Sunday Calvary Assembly will observe its annual Old Fashioned Day. Special awards will be given for the man, woman, boy and girl judged to have the best old-fashioned costume.

Although many will choose to wear old-fashioned costumes, it is optional and many others will not.

Ormond-produced film to be shown

Ron Ormond, who produced and directed "The Burning Hell", a film coming to First Church of the Nazarene, Highway 61 North, at 6 p.m. Sunday, and also spearheads the Ormond Organization likes to state that his family is living proof of the spiritual adage, "the family who prays together, stays together."

His wife, June, heads the business end and the distribution department of the former Hollywood-based motion picture company. Their son, Tim, works with his father as crew chief during production and also is studying for the ministry.

Before accepting Christ as his savior, Ormond worked in the major studios of Hollywood doing motion pictures with some of the most important stars.

When Hollywood departed from the theme of family films and started on a course of sex and violence, Ormond packed his camera and joined Lowell Thomas filming segments of "High Adventure", then the nation's No. 1 TV adventure program. After that assignment, Ormond moved his family to Nashville, Tenn., and enrolled Tim in a Christian academy.

In Nashville, they started making theatrical motion pictures of the country-western variety, getting their talent from the popular Grand Ole Opry. "We didn't know then," Ron Ormond stated, "that all of this was being directed toward the Lord's end."

Flying their airplane to a premiere in Louisville, Ky., things began happening shortly after takeoff. First the engine began missing, then moments afterwards, the engine froze. "Beneath us," Ormond pointed out, "was nothing but trees, high tension wires and houses.

"That's when I prayed. God please don't let us be killed. If you will spare our lives, I will devote the rest of mine to Your service."

Moments later the plane crashed to the ground and slid across a rocky field then came to an abrupt halt. Parts of the plane was everywhere, but miraculously there was no explosion or fire.

"June and I were hospitalized for awhile, but our son Tim escaped without a scratch," Ormond said.

Sometime later, the family prayed together and Ron accepted Christ and reaffirmed his vow to do what God wanted. Two days later an old friend called and wanted to know if he was interested in doing a gospel film. The answer was an immediate yes!

That was the beginning of what has turned into a great blessing for the former Hollywood-based Ormond Organization. Now with five gospel films to their credit, the Ormond family plans more productions.

"But all must be taken from the Bible," Tim adds quickly.

"The Burning Hell" was made in conjunction with Evangelist Estus Pirkle.

The Rev. Eldon Russell, pastor of the host church, said no admission will be charged, but a free will offering will be taken.

Union service plans set

The annual union Thanksgiving service, sponsored by the Sikeston Ministerial Alliance, will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Calvary Assembly Church, 127 W. Trotter St.

Dr. Arthur C. Fulbright, pastor of First United Methodist Church, will deliver the sermon. Special music will be provided by the United Pentecostal Church trio, and Larry Davis, associate pastor of Calvary Assembly, will lead congregational singing.

Homecoming Day event scheduled

TALLAPOOSA—A Pilgrim and Homecoming Day will be held Sunday at the Mt. Zion General Baptist Church at Jericho.

Jack Campbell and the Ambassadors of Gideon will be featured as guest singers.

The Sunday morning worship services will begin at 10 a.m., after which a covered dish dinner will be served. The afternoon service will begin at 1:30 p.m.

The Rev. Jean Craig is pastor of the church which is located two miles west of Tallapoosa.

The Rev. Marvin Butrum, pastor of Temple Baptist Church in Sikeston, will be the featured speaker, and the Murray Lane Baptist Church choir will present "Alleluia", a religious musical celebration written by Bill Gaither, under the direction of Greta Davis.

1. In Memoriam

In loving memory of my mother, Mary E. Estes, who passed away one year ago November 21, 1974.

Although you are gone and no more your face I see - But in my heart you live and always will in memory. You are not forgotten nor will you ever be as long as life and memory last. I will remember thee.

Missed by daughter,
Fannie Davis
11-21-75

In loving memory of Russell E. Long of Gray Ridge, who was killed in a car accident November 21, 1963.

Whenever I am troubled and lost in deep despair, I bundle all my troubles up and go to God in prayer. I tell him I am heartsick and lost and lonely too, That my mind is deeply burdened and I don't know what to do. But I know he stilled the tempest and calmed the angry sea. And I humbly ask if in his love. He'll do the same for me. And then I just keep quiet and think only thoughts of peace. And if I abide in stillness my restless murmurings cease.

Sadly missed by the family:
Mrs. Delours Long, Evelyn, Jim, Linda and Vest Long.

1. In Memoriam

In loving memory of my mother, Mary E. Estes, who passed away one year ago November 21, 1974.

Although you are gone and no more your face I see. But in my heart you live and always will in memory. You are not forgotten nor will you ever be as long as life and memory last. I will remember thee.

Missed by daughter,
Fannie Davis
11-21-75

In loving memory of Russell E. Long of Gray Ridge, who was killed in a car accident November 21, 1963.

Whenever I am troubled and lost in deep despair, I bundle all my troubles up and go to God in prayer. I tell him I am heartsick and lost and lonely too, That my mind is deeply burdened and I don't know what to do. But I know he stilled the tempest and calmed the angry sea. And I humbly ask if in his love. He'll do the same for me. And then I just keep quiet and think only thoughts of peace. And if I abide in stillness my restless murmurings cease.

Sadly missed by the family:
Mrs. Delours Long, Evelyn, Jim, Linda and Vest Long.

Utilities crews remain in Chaffee

CHAFFEE — Two weeks ago Missouri Utilities Co., a supplier of electricity for this area, finalized plans to move its work crews from Chaffee to Cape Girardeau.

Under strong protest from civic leaders, the company temporarily postponed the change.

Last week James Smyth, district manager of Missouri Utilities, informed Mayor Robert Capshaw that a definite decision had been made to move the crews and that Friday of last week would be their last day in Chaffee.

The mayor called Ray Call, president of Missouri Utilities, and scheduled a meeting. The mayor spent two hours with Call and James Lansmon, vice president of the company, pleading Chaffee's case.

On Monday morning, Smyth informed Mayor Capshaw on behalf of Missouri Utilities that the plan to move the crews from Chaffee had been abandoned and the men would stay in Chaffee.

Upon receipt of this message, the mayor issued the following statement:

"I speak for Chaffee and surrounding communities in expressing our sincere thanks to the executive officers of Missouri Utilities for their decision to keep their crews in Chaffee. The local Missouri Utilities employes are a fine asset to our city and they would have been sorely missed."

Resolution near in milk violation

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Legal resolution of the first charges brought against a dairy for violation of the state milk law has moved closer as a proposed judgment against a southwest Missouri firm has been forwarded to a special state Supreme Court commissioner.

The attorney general's office on Thursday submitted the judgment involving Foremost Foods of Springfield to special commissioner L. Frank Cottey for review. If Cottey approves it, it will be forwarded to the high court for final consideration. The company has agreed to its provisions. Asst. Atty. Gen. Michael Boicourt said he expected Supreme Court action on the judgment before the end of the year, concluding half of a suit brought against Foremost and Hiland Dairy Inc., another Springfield company, on Nov. 8, 1974. Boicourt said he expected Cottey to raise nothing more than technical questions about the proposal. The case against Hiland is still pending.

Under the order, if approved, Foremost would have to pay $17,500 to cover costs of the 1974 investigation by the attorney General's office and the state Department of Agriculture in southwest Missouri, which uncovered numerous apparent violations of the 1959 Unfair Milk Sales Practices Act.

The company would also have to pay more than $6,700 in license fees it had failed to pay the state in the past.

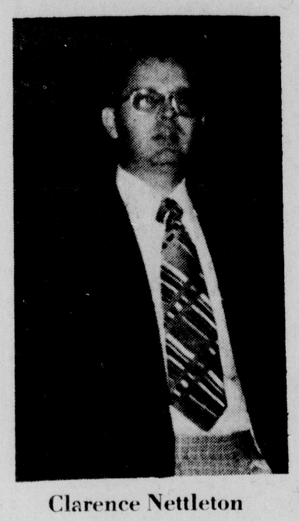
Social Security benefits discussed for SAARC



Clarence Nettleton

Social Security and supplemental security income, as it pertains to families of retarded children, were discussed Thursday night by Clarence Nettleton, operation supervisor of the Social Security Administration office in Sikeston, during a meeting of the Sikeston Area Association for Retarded Citizens at First Christian Church.

Nettleton told the group that many persons may qualify for supplemental income and not know it. Each family is regarded as an individual case which requires individual attention, he noted. Nettleton urged citizens to visit the office to determine their eligibility and stated that the process is short and usually simple.

New association-sponsored Girl Scout and Boy Scout troops, designed specifically for retarded children, are nearly ready to begin organizing. The Girl Scout troop is ready to register members, while the Boy Scouts are planning a training session for troop leaders and also are ready to accept members.

The next meeting, scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 16 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, will begin with a potluck dinner, followed by distribution of Christmas gifts to children present for the meeting and the singing of Christmas carols.

Need a Retirement Program?

Now you can save up to...
(And Pay Less Taxes, Too.) $1500.00 PER YEAR

Until recently, if you worked for a company that didn't have a retirement plan, you were discriminated against by the United States government.

If you tried to save money for your own retirement, you still had to pay income taxes on the money you were putting away.

(An individual working for a company with a retirement plan doesn't have to pay taxes now on funds contributed for his retirement years.)

Now you can start your own retirement plan at Bank of Sikeston in Sikeston, get a tax break and earn the highest rate of bank interest allowed by law.

If you work for a company that doesn't have a retirement plan, Bank of Sikeston can help you put away up to $1500 each year for your retirement.

You get to deduct that $1500 from your gross income each year. That gives you a tax break, and at the same time your money is earning the highest rate of bank interest allowed by law.

Bank of Sikeston can even make monthly transfer from your checking account into your retirement fund until your yearly goal is met. Or you can work out your own schedule of contributions.

Naturally, Bank of Sikeston will supply the information you need to get your tax deduction each year.

That way, while you're saving for your retirement, your money will be making money, and you'll be saving on your taxes all at once.

And that's the kind of break you need today.

So call 471-1200. Ned Matthews will give you all the information you need to get started
